CLASS STRUGGLE

■ As a new era dawns at CSUMB, criticism was the exception, not the rule, as new students expected a certain degree of chaos.

By PAUL WOLF
and DELIN CORMENY

WHEN EMI Otagaki was pulling together the loose ends of her earth systems science program, she learned something significant.

Her scheduled chemistry class for the fall semester had been canceled. The reason: The chemistry building at California State University-Monterey Bay is four to six weeks away from completion.

Otagaki's counselor advised her to sign up again in the spring or take the class at Monterey Peninsula College.

ON CAMPUS

"I am a little bit worried," Otagaki remarked Monday, the official start of the fall semester. "The problem is, I have to take chemistry before I can take certain other classes."

Like most CSUMB students, Otagaki retains a buoyant optimism about the possibilities for the school, which has sprung practically from the ground up at the former Fort Ord in just nine months.

But on a campus where newly renovated dorms and classrooms hardly look different than the familiar barracks and military facilities, the fledgling institution gives every indication of being a frenzied work-in-progress.

And one thing is clear: The base-conversion process — which may cost roughly $150 million — will continue long after opening day.

Funds in mind

Robert Forbes, a 30-year-old environmental studies major, believes the university opened prematurely in order to ensure federal subsidies, which so far have totaled $29 million.

Hannah Carvey (left) and Denise Stark took advantage of CSUMB's campus map Tuesday morning to determine the proper routes to their classes.

Forbes contended that all the fanfare this week about the base transformation will deflect some of the negative publicity surrounding military base closures across the nation.

"President Clinton's going to be here and they want to show off a successful base closure — especially in California, where there have been so many," he said.

Students, he said, may suffer the consequences in the long run. He explained that he felt pushed by CSUMB counselors to enroll in classes that the school offered rather than those that may count as prerequisites toward his major.

Still, such criticism was the exception, not the rule, as many students insisted a degree of chaos was to be expected. On the same day founding

Clinton to be draped in tight security during Labor Day visit

Local agencies will participate

By PAUL WOLF

WHEN WHITE House Chief of Staff Leon Panetta held a press conference last week at CSU-Monterey Bay, he strolled into the well-publicized event and openly greeted everyone in sight.

When his boss, Bill Clinton, arrives Monday to formally dedicate the new campus, he will not be permitted such a casual entrance.

The chief executive will be the subject of tight security, although the details of the security operations have been kept carefully under wraps by the U.S. Secret Service and campus officials.

CSUMB officials have been holding discussions with the president's security detail since mid-August, according to Stephen Reed, director of public relations and governmental affairs.

The U.S. Secret Service has license to recruit the help of any nearby jurisdiction. In the case of Clinton's Labor Day visit, involved agencies are to include campus police, the sheriff's department and the neighboring cities of Seaside and Marina.

"All these agencies have been contacted and are no doubt going to be involved in some fashion," said Reed, who has been in contact with the Secret Service since a few days before Panetta's visit.

Carmel mayor alarmed over county ambulance plan

By SUSAN BECK

Supervisors to tackle issue at Tuesday meeting

AS THE county moves toward the consolidation of this area's ambulance operations, some Carmel and Carmel Valley officials fear the reorganization could lead to slower response times.

Carmel Mayor Ken White said the action Monterey County Board of Supervisors is expected to take Tuesday will force the removal of Carmel's permanently stationed ambulance at the city's Sixth Avenue fire station.

"The possibility of reduced service is going to have significant implications on our very large population of older residents," White said.

The supervisors are scheduled to award a countywide ambulance contract to one of three bidders — Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance (CRFA), Peninsula Medics or A-1 Ambulance Service, all of which currently provide service.

Although CRFA's bid is the lowest, Peninsula Medics has received the highest overall score from a review committee of statewide emergency medical experts.

CRFA's average charge per call would be $724 without any financial assistance from the county, while Peninsula Medics would be $763 with a $600,000 subsidy, according to the committee's report.

The proposals were scored on 14 criteria including cost, according to Robert Melton, director of Monterey County Department of Health.

"Cost is only one factor," he said. "Peninsula Medics scored superior in almost all other areas."

While White's concerns focus on Carmel, Brian Smith, manager of the nonprofit CRFA, is worried about the possible effect on response times in Carmel Valley.

In 1989, the Carmel, Mid Carmel Valley and Carmel Valley Village fire departments joined forces to provide paramedic services required by the county, he noted.

Currently, Smith said there is a 24-hour ambulance at three locations — Carmel, Mid Carmel Valley and Big Sur fire stations. Two non-emergency transport ambulances are housed at the Mid Carmel Valley and Carmel Valley

I feel the warmth

WARMTH, friendliness, welcome ... I felt them all last week as I tiptoed into Carmel to spread harmony and can't-we-all-git-along philosophy throughout the village. ESPECIALLY the warmth.

Some writers rock boats, cast stones and generally stir the waters. But that's not my bag.

I AM the peacemaker, the oil on troubled waters, the soft voice who says "There, there" to frazzled combatants.

So it was perhaps fitting that city fathers and mothers were effusive in their welcomes when told I intended to stay on in Carmel.

COUNCILWOMAN Barbara Livingston set the tone for the rest, I guess, when she greeted me graciously with: "Why us?"

I KNEW what she meant. Her next words would have been, "What have we done to deserve such good fortune?" But I put her at ease when I softly replied, "Hush, hush, sweet Charlotte."

(Dang! I had blown her name! But I was certain she hadn't noticed because she walked away in a trance. A warm trance.)

MAYOR Ken White was just as fervent in HIS greeting. In fact, I thought I detected a sentimental tear when he murmured:

"At latest count, gossip was running down more people than automobiles in Carmel."

"I PREDICT this bird will be far more dangerous than cars."

(He meant it in a nice way, I could tell, because he never knocks birds, and I could feel the warmth in his voice.)

And so it went.

COUNCILWOMAN Paula Hazdovac: "Carmel-by-the-Sea has survived devastating earthquakes, floods and financial crises."

"The question is — can we now survive THIS?"

(She neglected to add the last word — "bonanza" — but I knew what she meant.)

COUNCILMAN Bob Fischer:

"The restaurant owners in Carmel have asked me not to let him into town."

(You know restaurant owners — they're all fun-loving pranksters! But warm.)

COUNCILMAN Phil Coniglio Jr.:

"He's STAYING here? Gee, everything was going so well ..."

(His voice kind of trailed off there, but I knew what he was thinking — "I never dreamed it could get even better!")

City Administrator Jere Kersnar:

"Carmel has always been blessed with great characters. You'll fit right in."

(I didn't understand that, but he said it warmly.)

WE even received warmth from the police and fire chiefs, too.

Police Chief Don Fuselier:

"Don't start anything. We know where you live."

(He's talking about poker games. He doesn't want us to start without him. What a warm guy!)

Fire Chief Bill Hill:

"Don't get any ideas. There are no free meals at the Fire Department."

(It was very nice of him to explain the rules to a newcomer like me. I thanked him and asked

McPherson grooms Republicans to battle 'seasoned Democrat'

By PAUL WOLF

FROM EARLY forecasts, the 1996 contest for the 27th Assembly District, usually solid Democratic turf, may pit a Republican newcomer against a "seasoned Democrat."

But Republicans mustn't fear, according to Bruce McPherson, the GOP assemblyman since 1993 who has his sights set on the state Senate: "The ice has been broken for a Republican."

In the Democratic primary, he did note, however, that, "Whoever runs against Karin Strasser Kauffman or Fred Keeley is going to face a experienced politician."

Strasser Kauffman, a former Monterey County supervisor, and Keeley, a current Santa Cruz County supervisor, are practically on the campaign trail, although neither has formally declared candidacy.

McPherson said he has had serious inquiries from two potential Assembly hopefuls. They are:

■ Roger Nowell, a Watsonville businessman.

■ Ray Jensen, a Prunedale federal employee.

Indeed, most of the formal announcements have not yet been made for either the Assembly or Senate races, but a picture of 1996 is starting to take shape.

Is Mello out?

McPherson's Senate ambitions have been spurred in great part by State Sen. Henry Mello's probable need to step down from the 15th District. Pending a court decision, Mello's seat may be subject to term limits.

If he is ineligible for the Senate, the Democrat will still have the option of vying for Assembly — an avenue he has not counted out, but, according to some insiders, is not likely to pursue.

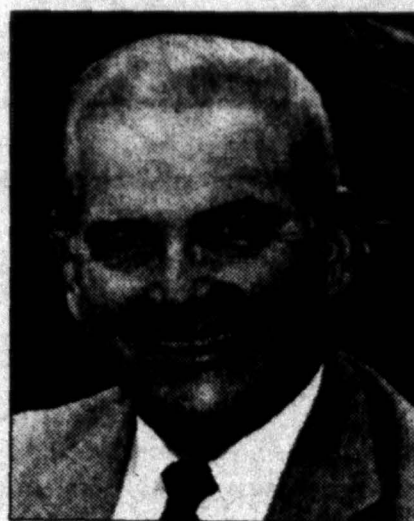

Meanwhile, Strasser Kauffman, who stepped down as fifth district county supervisor in 1993, disclosed: "I am not going to make an announcement before the filing period opens (Oct. 20). But I can state I am going to run and that I am organizing my team and detailing my strategy."

For a brief time, Strasser Kauffman was scoping both the Assembly and Senate races. "I think the Assembly is tailor-made for me in terms of the issues I have worked for as a parent, teacher, public servant and activist," she said.

The Assembly turf encompasses the coastal half of Monterey County and all of Santa Cruz County. The Senate district embraces all of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties, as well as a portion of Santa Clara County.

Demographic challenge

McPherson notes that he faces a demographic

Sen. Boxer plans to hold Carmel town meeting Saturday afternoon

U.S. SENATOR Barbara Boxer will conduct an informal town hall meeting from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the Carmel Middle School Gymnasium on Saturday.

Boxer announced she will focus on three subjects in particular: the federal budget, the future of Medicare and the environment. There will be time, however, for questions and answers on all topics.

challenge in his bid for the sprawling 15th District, where registered Democrats outnumber Republicans roughly five-to-three.

The challenge is all the greater considering that turnout out is expected to be high in November 1996 as voters will be casting their ballots for president.

"I will continue to run on the platform of economic development and environmental protection and striking a good balance between the two," McPherson said.

With the strong possibility of Mello not being in the senatorial fold next spring, McPherson apparently will face Rusty Arcias, former 28th District Assemblyman. Indeed, other aspirants may surface before the March primary is underway.

At the Assembly level, Strasser Kauffman and Keeley won't face Democrat Bill Monning, the Salinas attorney who made an unsuccessful bid for Assembly last year. He plans instead to put his energies into a budding campaign finance reform drive.

Meanwhile, the 17th Congressional District may prove competitive as incumbent Sam Farr, D-Carmel, has an official challenge from moderate Republican Jess Brown, the current executive director of the Santa Cruz Farm Bureau.

Neighborhood boardwalk plan nixed

Carmel Beach fire debate heats up; panel favors one-hour extension

By JOHN DETRO

THE CARMEL Forest and Beach Commission this week capped a series of public hearings by snubbing the suggested San Antonio Avenue boardwalk in favor of a simpler pathway for strollers.

This action came Tuesday at the commission's regular monthly meeting in the council chambers at city hall. The modified plan already has been forwarded to the council for placement on a future agenda.

The Monterey Regional Park District proposed the boardwalk, between six and eight feet wide, on the west side of San Antonio between Second and Fourth. It would have been part of a new, peninsula-wide system serving pedestrians and bicycle riders.

After weighing input from the public hearings, the commission took bicycles out of the picture. Margie Perotti of City Forester Gary Kelly's office said the modified, pedestrians-only plan calls for a pathway of decomposed granite that will be three to four feet in width and have a retaining wall.

Boardwalk opponents felt that the height might have passers-by looking right into their yards — and would necessitate the removal of too many trees and shrubs. Proponents liked the increased safety from traffic flow for children in the area; commissioners felt that the path would offer that.

Beach fire policy draws crowd

An unusually large number of citizens — 11 of them — voiced opinions about the ordinance regulating fires on Carmel Beach. Interested residents previously suggested the installation of fire rings to City Forester Kelly.

Some public response Tuesday labeled such rings "ugly," and three speakers said there should be no beach fires at all. Others called the fires "a Carmel family tradition" and said the rings would work against spontaneous fun.

In the end, commissioners approved just one change in the ordinance — a one-hour extension of the time for beach fires to 11 p.m.

Kelly was asked to draft the amendment for approval of commissioners at their next regular session — Sept. 26.

Sheriff's Log

NEIGHBORS CARE about neighbors. So here's a rundown on activity logged by Monterey County Sheriff's Department from Tuesday, Aug. 22, to Monday, Aug. 28. Note — Items from "Carmel" refer to the sheriff's jurisdiction; deputies do not handle calls within the city limits of Carmel-By-The-Sea.

TUESDAY, AUG. 22

- Carmel Valley: A woman who reported the theft of computer equipment from an outbuilding last Friday night reported "all equipment recovered."

- Carmel Valley: A man reported two briefcases and a drill were taken from his flatbed truck during the night.

- Pebble Beach: A man reported that his daughter was missing. It turned out that his wife had made arrangements for the youngster to stay at a family friend's home. "The daughter was there and okay."

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 23

- Carmel: A man reported that he was "confronted in the street by a dog that got loose" from another home. Animal control contacted.

- Carmel: A woman reported "a nude man standing next to a house on Ocean View" this afternoon.

- Carmel Valley: A man reported having problems with his daughter over a "recent battery report."

- Pebble Beach: A visitor from Glendale reported the possible theft of $85,000 in jewelry from "some friends who were guests" of a hotel during the past week. The guests were a couple from Japan; they "since have departed for home."

- Pebble Beach: A woman said she returned home for lunch and found her brother there. "He is a felon and a drug abuser; she doesn't have anything to do with him." And she was suspicious as to why he was in the place.

- Pebble Beach: A Pacific Grove man advised that his car was vandalized while it was in a hotel parking lot. "Damage estimated at $2,000."

- Big Sur: A man reported "damage to his truck by a neighbor."

THURSDAY, AUG. 24

- Carmel: A man reported a forgery.

- Carmel: A woman reported "documents stolen from her car" while it was parked in front of a local home.

- Carmel: A woman reported that someone stole flower pots from in front of her home during the night. "Other pots were damaged."

- Carmel: A local lad reported the theft of his mountain bike from the trail behind a school. "He later checked the area and found his bike where he had left it."

- Carmel: A man reported his six-year-old son missing from a shopping center. "An off-duty CHP officer later found the youngster on Highway 1 near Carmel Valley Road."

- Carmel Valley: A woman reported that her residence was entered. Jewelry worth $1,250 was taken, she said. "No sign of entry."

- Pebble Beach: A San Francisco man reported that stringed pearls were stolen from his hotel room.

- Pebble Beach: A man reported clothing and shoes valued at $3,200 removed from his home between Jan. 7 and Jan. 27. "Occurred while the dwelling was being repaired by various construction crews."

FRIDAY, AUG. 25

- Carmel: A woman reported having problems with her landlord.

- Carmel: "A Carmel man was punched in the nose by a Salinas man" at a supermarket.

- Carmel: A man reported the theft of car parts from his driveway.

- Carmel: A man said he was having "an ongoing problem with his 45-year-old son," who lives with the reporting party.

- Carmel: A woman reported from her workplace that her "former boyfriend violated the terms of a restraining order by following her there." Warrant complaint pending.

- Carmel: A male transient had a restaurant meal and tried to pay for it with a "lost or stolen Visa credit card belonging to a woman of an unknown address." The transient was placed under citizen's arrest by the restaurant manager and taken to jail for unlawful use of the credit card and possession of lost property.

- Carmel: A man reported the theft of jewelry from his apartment "within the past two weeks." The place showed no signs of forced entry.

- Carmel: A woman's wallet was taken out of her shopping cart, she said, while she was in a supermarket.

- Carmel Valley: One CV man reported having been threatened by another.

- Carmel Valley: A man reported "an ongoing problem with people prowling around a winery."

- Carmel Valley: A man reported "damage to some of his water equipment and his water tank drained during the night." He suspects a neighbor.

- Carmel Valley: A man reported "finding things" that led him to believe "someone had been spying on him and his girlfriend."

- Pebble Beach: A man reported vandalism to the front door of his home. "BB shot through the glass." The same thing was reported by a guard at the Highway 1 gate.

- Pebble Beach: A man reported that a camera and locket were removed from his residence on Aug. 14. "Estimated loss — $375."

SATURDAY, AUG. 26

- Carmel: A health aide at a care home reported that a "client tried to leave and became combative when the aide tried to stop her." The client was transported to Community Hospital.

- Carmel Valley: A 911 call was received from a popular bar. It reported "three subjects fighting" inside. When officers arrived, a waitress said the fight had been "verbal only" and all of the suspects had left. "The names of those involved were, of course, unknown."

- Carmel Valley: At a tennis ranch, an outdoor liquor cabinet had the door pried open and five bottles of vodka were removed. One bottle was dropped on a patio walkway. A "past and present suspect" was named.

- Pebble Beach: The sheriff's dive rescue team was paged to Bird Rock regarding an overturned boat. "All three victims were brought ashore prior to officers' arrival. All were in good condition."

- Pebble Beach: A man reported vandalism to an attic roof window. "It was shot with a BB or pellet gun." The same sort of attack was perpetrated on a rental car, said a man who lives near the other case.

- Pebble Beach: A woman reported "numerous violations of a 'stay away order' by her husband." He was identified as a Pacific Grove resident.

- Pebble Beach: A man reported the theft of two mountain bikes from a garage.

- Big Sur: A man reported a burglary during the night at an inn. "Front window broken and opened. Taken were cartons of cigarettes and some lottery tickets. No suspects."

- Big Sur: A man at a campground reported having a verbal fight with his girlfriend. "He became upset and began breaking items inside his cabin. She got frightened and called 911."

- Big Sur: A Marina man reported that a male friend was missing in the area of Plaskett Creek Ridge. The "lost" man was riding a dirt bike.

A search of more than three hours by the reporting party and friends failed to locate him.

"Then the man's dirt bike was found parked, and he was found to be back in

Local activist en route to Beijing's Women's Conference

By DELIN CORMENY

MARJORIE ATKINSON isn't intimidated by China.

Nor does she worry that her background as a social activist — and her arrest record — will put her at odds with the Chinese government and its reputation for human rights violations.

She's not in the least unnerved by the fact that some of her colleagues are having difficulties getting into the country, which is hosting the Fourth annual United Nations Conference on Women.

Marjorie Atkinson, gray-haired and smiles, is going anyway.

"It'll be great," she said, as she ruffled through travel plans and agendas. "It is exciting."

Atkinson, from Salinas, is one of three area women who will attend the 15-day U.N. Conference in Beijing, along with an estimated 40,000 others. The meeting starts Monday.

The other area women — Nancy McClintock, Seaside, and Alice Ann Glenn, Monterey — already have departed. Atkinson plans to leave next week.

All three women are members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, the world's oldest feminist organization. Atkinson will represent Peace Links, however, a grassroots lobbying association that promotes cross-cultural understanding and communication.

Making a difference

"I think this is so important," Atkinson explained, "to expose the mistreatment of women."

During her years as a social worker, she said she witnessed numerous situations in which women were treated unfairly — by their husbands, by society and by the system.

"To see that women's and children's needs are not cared for is really distressing to me," she said. "This hostility in the world is so damaging. We need to reach out with caring."

Atkinson recalled a mother in Washington, D.C. who left two of her children momentarily unattended while they waited for their grandmother to arrive. The mother was late for a low-wage job and afraid she would be fired.

"The grandmother never got there," Atkinson said softly. "Those two kids burned in a fire." She paused. "That was really hard for me."

She also remembered wanting to be a lawyer when she was a child and being told that the only way she could work in a lawyer's office was to become a secretary.

Years later, she was one of seven female law students in a school of 120.

Worldwide impact

This will be the second U.N. conference for Atkinson, who attended the Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro in 1992 and worked in an information booth for WILPF.

"It reminded me an awful lot of the Monterey County Fair," she said. "There were lots of booths in a great big park."

Her altruism has taken her around the world to impoverished areas in Guatemala and Kyrgyzstan (formerly part of the U.S.S.R.), always with the goal of "reaching out with caring."

She's been robbed, frightened and shuffled across a border into Russia by strangers in the middle of the night, but says her anti-nuclear protests in Nevada landed her in the most trouble.

"I've been arrested a couple of times," she said matter-of-factly. "Led away in handcuffs and everything."

Despite her disagreement with China's nuclear testing, Atkinson says she won't participate in any nuclear protests during her visit and will abstain from criticizing the country.

"It's too dangerous," she commented. "We are guests there. My own government is something I feel I have an obligation to do something about, but not their government."

Besides, she added with a smile. "I promised my husband I wouldn't do anything."

Tourism is gaining momentum, say hospitality industry leaders

Concours Weekend puts national, international spotlight on Monterey Peninsula; outlook is good for rest of year

By SUSAN BECK

DESPITE EARLIER fears that lingering images of the January and March floods might have a chilling effect, hospitality leaders say Monterey Peninsula's tourism is on the rise.

"Across the board, this has been a very good year," said Manette Belliveau, executive director of the Monterey Peninsula Visitors & Convention Bureau. "For some businesses, it was better than previous years."

From January to June, the City of Monterey enjoyed a 3.7 percent room tax increase over last year, Belliveau said. Although Carmel's room tax revenues dropped 2.5 percent, Monterey County's unincorporated areas increased 1.5 percent.

Prior to January's flood, Belliveau said a team of Monterey city officials, businessmen and representatives of the Visitors & Convention Bureau organized a major advertising campaign to encourage people from Northern and Southern California to visit the area.

Belliveau credits the campaign with a "tremendous increase in Monterey's tourism during a typically slow season."

Mephisto is quite simply the finest walking shoe on earth. Its comfort, anatomical support and durability are recognized wherever people take walking seriously. In fact, Mephisto has become the most popular walking shoe in virtually every country in which it has been introduced.

Throughout their nearly three decades of existence, Mephisto has been in the forefront of innovation in walking shoe design and construction. Using only natural materials, their durability is legendary and all styles are re-solable.

Mephisto of Carmel is one of only a few stores world wide that house the entire collection of Mephisto footwear. Choose from an incredible selection of sandals, "sport walkers," casual walking shoes, dress shoes, golf shoes or hiking boots.

Come by and experience the "Greyhound" for men. Built on the new Rolyx design, it functions as a sporty dress shoe and a comfortable walking shoe, as well as a "capped heel" driving shoe.

Peninsula tourism is on the rebound after slow season start

David Fink, current president of the Monterey County Travel and Tourism Alliance, said the increase in room tax figures indicates "a return of tourism to the peninsula."

Long before this year's floods, heightened advertising campaigns by other states, the East Coast and Europe had lured tourists away from California, said Fink, general manager of the Highlands Inn.

Also, local officials have noted that there is more competition and greater advertising from other tourist destinations within the state.

Despite these obstacles, Fink said hospitality leaders had expected the strengthened dollar to boost tourism in Monterey County.

"If you take the flood months out," Fink said, "we'd all be having a very good year. The fall looks very promising. There are more reservations on the books for September than there were last year. And we had a great September last year."

The hotel and restaurant business at Carmel Valley's Quail Lodge is better than it has been in the past three years, according to Csaba Ajan, vice president and general manager.

Other than March, he said the hotel has been full on weekends and week-night business is better than last year.

Since 1981, Quail Lodge has hosted Concours Italiana, one of several events held every August during the four-day Concours Weekend.

While some 60,000 vintage car enthusiasts spend millions during the weekend, Ajan also noted the significance of its accompanying national and international publicity.

"I'm cautiously optimistic about the future," he said. "California's economy is still lagging behind some other areas."

Concours Italiana attendance has almost doubled during the past two years, according to Frank Mandarano, event chairman. Ticket sales this year totaled $220,000.

"The event is on the rise in terms of popularity," Mandarano said from his Bellevue, Wash., office. "About half of the visitors (5,100) came from other areas and probably spent about $300 a day. When you stop to think about it, that's a lot of money."

This year's attendance at the 45th annual Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance was up 10 percent, according to its executive director, Sandra Kasky. Last year, some 13,000 vintage car lovers paid almost $700,000 to attend the granddaddy of Concours Weekend, she said.

More than 40,000 people spent at least $500,000 on tickets to see the Monterey Historic Auto Races, and "We're still counting," noted Scott Atherton, general manager for Laguna Seca Raceway.

While the Concours Weekend is the biggest money maker of the year, it's difficult to pinpoint its overall effect on the Monterey Peninsula's hospitality industry, Belliveau explained.

"All we know is that the hotels were sold out," she said. The only other guideline is the Monterey Visitors Center at Lake El Estero, which tallied a record 5,000 visitors on Saturday and Sunday during the Concours.

"That's a 25 percent increase of what we've seen during the past three years," Belliveau said. "But that's only one area of measurement."

Furniture Out of Africa

The "Railroads Collection" of furniture is available here in Carmel. Handcrafted from recycled untreated railroad ties laid in Africa around the turn of the century. These exotic ancient hardwoods, now naturally weathered, are transformed into beautiful furniture.

African Odyssey features major wildlife artists and talented men & women who, through self-help projects have newly gained skills working with fabric and weavings, incorporating their heritage and customs. Included are decorator lamps utilizing African masks and sculptures, and the contemporary art of modern Africa.

BUSBOY HERO

Teen's quick mind and actions save life of choking diner

By JOHN DETRO

AFTER APPARENTLY saving a man's life, 16-year-old Desmond (Desi) Nault of Carmel Valley neither sought nor shunned the spotlight.

"If I hadn't been there," he said matter-of-factly, "I know somebody else would have done it."

But he was there — on his job as a bus boy for Simpson's Restaurant at Fifth and San Carlos in Carmel.

"It all happened so fast," young Nault recalled. "Later they thanked me — and I felt good that I could help."

"They" were an out-of-town doctor and her husband. Here for a medical convention, they went to Simpson's for dinner on Monday, Aug. 21. As can happen in any similar setting, the man choked on a piece of meat.

"Naturally," said Simpson's co-owner Dana Little, "the doctor knew the Heimlich Maneuver. But she was petite, and the man was tall — about 6-feet-1-inch — and she couldn't get a proper grip."

"The man couldn't breathe. His wife cried out: 'Somebody do something!' Nault was standing nearby. He's tall, too — a surfer. He got behind the man, giving him three tugs. Thank goodness — the bite of food dislodged. The whole thing happened in 45 seconds or so — it could have been a fatal matter if Desi hadn't acted when he did."

Illustrated chart remembered

For his part, the teen-ager said he was "mystified" — truly surprised because he'd never taken Heimlich lessons. What he remembered, he said, was the illustrated chart that management had posted out by the employees' entrance.

"Now I'm doubly glad we did," Little said. "The lady was pleading. Desi's response time was wonderful — he's a great kid."

Desmond Nault performed the Heimlich Maneuver on a choking diner and saved the man's life.

The life-saver's parents, Jim and Starlet Nault, have the La Coiffure salon of Carmel. The family lives in Carmel Valley.

"I just did the maneuver," he said. "I remembered it from the drawing on the wall."

Little was asked if other personnel at the restaurant now treated Nault like a hero.

"Sure," she said with a smile in her voice. "Wouldn't you?"

CSUMB students adopt attitude of flexibility

president Peter Smith referred to the student body as "our partners" at a rally, the CSUMB newcomers appeared to believe there was something to that assessment.

True, there are problems to solve, but the students are given the opportunity to be part of the solutions. As earth science major Rex Ricks put it, "If you need a lot of built-in structure, this isn't the place to be. This is an adventure. We will have a lot of say in molding this university."

Keeping flexible

For now, students have adopted an attitude of flexibility.

Torrey Loomis, for example, noted that the university requires proficiency in a foreign language, yet he will not be able to follow up on his two semesters of German because it is not yet offered at CSUMB.

Loomis, a junior, has decided to start Spanish from scratch. "It's not a big deal to me," he said. "Besides, Spanish is more useful living here in California."

Loomis is learning to take the good with the bad. Here is a school, he said enthusiastically, that offers diving classes (in conjunction with the Moss Landing Marine Laboratory) to fulfill science requirements. "These were the hot classes, and I was out of luck this time," he said. "I will try again."

Flexibility has been demonstrated on the part of the faculty as well.

Business major Michael Berry said his biggest scheduling problem was solved when a new section of a full computer class was added to accommodate bumped students.

But junior Chris Janusz, 23, said the meager course offerings simply weren't enough to keep him in step with his intended major. After discovering that certain business classes weren't offered and most likely wouldn't be available next year, he changed his major to multimedia.

His decision may prove to be a blessing because CSUMB is expected to become one of the most technologically progressive universities in the nation. Computers are just shy of mandatory, and a considerable online library is in the works.

"If you miss a day of class, you can get online and find out everything that happened," Janusz said.

Sigrid O'Hara, a 43-year-old social work student, said although she's a bit intimidated by the emphasis on computers, she thinks it will prove extremely useful. "What we'll experience here is more like the real world," she said.

Pioneering spirit

In fact, most of the students said they were attracted to the university precisely because of the pioneering and experimental atmosphere.

The university's clean slate allows for creativity which normally would not be acceptable in entrenched departments and curricula.

The innovative parts of CSUMB's programs are signaled by its "collaborative" and "interdisciplinary" programs, which link technology with humanities, scholastics with community service and academia with the private sector.

The downside of these experiments

Average home to pay $5.65 more per month for dam

By PAUL WOLF

THE AVERAGE home on the Monterey Peninsula will pay $5.65 per month more for water starting next year should the New Los Padres Dam be approved by voters in November.

That is roughly 23 percent more than the current bill, according to Bill Hurst, Monterey Peninsula Water Management District interim general manager.

The $116 million dam on the Carmel River would be financed by water-connection charges and the new user fee effective Jan. 1. The new costs are contingent upon a majority vote of the peninsula-wide Measure C.

The fee — affecting both businesses and households — can be expressed in simple terms: Multiply 87 cents by the number of units you use. That is the additional amount you would pay.

The fee was approved by the MPWMD board last week. Directors followed a staff recommendation to settle on the per-unit amount.

A unit of water is 100 cubic feet, or 748 gallons. An average home, according to Hurst, uses about 6.5 units a month. Thus the monthly increase would be $5.65, or $11.30 for each billing period.

In certain cases, the per-unit hike would be as much as 47 percent. But that doesn't tell the whole story because a water bill reflects various fees, surcharges and taxes besides the per-unit cost.

Because homes and businesses vary in size, number of occupants and volume of water used, customers should expect bills to increase anywhere from 10 to 41 percent, according to MPWMD figures.

Seaside student says CSUMB ideal for self-starters

is reflected in comments from students who called course descriptions vague and confusing.

Despite the rush to get the fall semester underway, students will have the luxury of time to watch — and participate in — the university's evolution.

As a 600-student campus grows to accept 20,000, the science facilities now missing will be in place, and the course offerings will broaden and deepen.

Billy Coleman, a 31-year-old Seaside resident who would have had to commute to San Jose State were it not for CSUMB, said the new campus is perfect for self-starters.

And like many students, he said the opportunities outweigh the problems. "There are a lot of limitations, but I think we still have a great situation here," he said. "Students here have to be self-motivated, and that suits me just fine."

Students combine study, fun during trip to Japan

Monterey's sister city makes students feel at home

By DELIN CORMENY

WHEN JULIA Stuart was in Japan last month, the locals treated her like a movie star.

"I have blonde hair and they were really fascinated by my hair," the 13-year-old Robert Louis Stevenson Middle School student said. "They would ask me for my signature, touch my hair and giggle."

Stuart was one of nine local students and three Monterey Peninsula Jaycees who went on a 10-day trip to Monterey's sister city, Nanao, Japan. The aim of the trip was to promote cross-cultural education and understanding.

The project was organized by local and Japanese Jaycees and funded by various companies and individuals in addition to the Jaycees. Although Japanese students have come to the Monterey Peninsula annually for the past eight years, this was the first reciprocal trip for American students.

Stephen Dunsford, also from RLS Middle School, said he was surprised by the similarities he found in Nanao. He said he ate Corn Flakes, eggs and bacon and played the card game Uno with his host family.

He also discovered that members of his host family play the same piano pieces he plays.

But, he said, there was a noticeable difference when it came to family life. "Everybody's quiet," Dunsford, 14, said. "Nobody talks loudly. And when they do speak, they're soft-spoken and very polite."

Dunsford said he was puzzled by the enthusiasm that the group encountered.

Nanao clones Monterey's tourist economy, replicates attractions

Friendship Association hosts dinner for groups with ties to Nanao

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Nanao Friendship Association has scheduled a 6 p.m. reception and 7 p.m. dinner Wednesday, Sept. 13, to welcome the 10th Marine City U.S.A. Seminar Group at the Custom House Plaza Memory Garden in Monterey.

The delegation of 35 members, lead by Nanao Mayor Hiroshi Ishigaki, consists of representatives from organizations who have a "sister/brother chapter" relationship with the 10 MPNFA member organizations: American Institute of Architects Monterey Bay Chapter, Carmel Rotary International, City of Monterey, Monterey County Hospitality Association, Monterey Jazz Festival, Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, Monterey Peninsula Jaycees, Monterey Rotary International, the Old Fishermans' Wharf Business Association, and the Soroptimist International of Monterey Peninsula.

The cost of the dinner is $30 per person. Reservation deadline is Monday, September 11. Checks should be made payable to the MPNFA and mailed to PO Box 21, Monterey 93942-0021.

More information: 384-8729 or 372-7265.

tered. When the students visited the local junior high schools, Japanese students were "hanging out the windows waving at us," Dunsford said. "I guess they don't have the chance to see Americans a lot."

The American students had the chance to sit in on English classes and participate in calligraphy classes during their visit to the junior high schools. They also experienced traditional tea ceremonies, Tiko drumming, traditional painting, Obon dancing, witnessed a Lantern parade and toured gardens.

Alex Hubbard, president of the local Jaycees and one of the chaperones, said the group also toured the coast, which is "remarkably similar to ours," he said. "It's just as majestic and scenic as ours from Carmel to Big Sur."

He said it was "almost scary" the way the city had cloned the Monterey area. Nanao modeled its fisherman's wharf after Monterey's Fisherman's Wharf, modeled its aquarium after the Monterey Bay Aquarium (complete with an exhibit of sea life from this area), and has two plazas — Carmel Plaza and Monterey Plaza.

Hubbard explained: "Ten or 11 years ago, Nanao went through a period of economic stagnation. Their leaders identified cities in California which were similar fishing/tourist economies, and they picked Monterey."

Thus, the sister-city relationship.

He said Nanao sent delegations here to get ideas on how to stimulate Nanao's economy. At the same time, the Nanao Jaycees teamed up with local Jaycees and began planning student exchanges, among other projects.

"They brought back ideas and projects to Nanao with great success," said Hubbard, a Monterey attorney. "Like a lot of things in the Japanese culture, the Japanese borrow what is good from others — socially, culturally and in business. They're good at using it to their own purposes and making it better."

About 15 students applied for the trip, but funding was available for only nine to go.

Security to drape Clinton as he visits peninsula Monday

close how many secret service agents will be part of Clinton's entourage or how that network will operate.

He did note, however, that the Secret Service would be in charge of the "joint command" with local agencies. Under strict control will be such diverse activities as pedestrian flow, traffic and entrances to the campus, Reed explained.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Department will assume a large role in traffic control, according to Lt. Dave Allard, public information officer.

He said the department cannot disclose how many vehicles or personnel will be diverted for the presidential visit. "Even if we had a bigger role than traffic, we would not be able to say anyway," he commented.

Ironically, Reed is no stranger to presidential security matters, having served for four years as a White House scheduler during the Carter administration. "This is nothing unfamiliar to me," he said.

Clinton is scheduled to lead a ceremony at 10:45 a.m. Monday, Labor Day. His arrival to the Monterey Bay Area will follow an event Sunday at Pearl Harbor to mark V-J Day. Later Monday, Clinton will travel to Alameda County to participate in a Labor Day Picnic.

The president is scheduled to arrive at 9:25 p.m. Sunday at the Monterey Peninsula Airport. On Sunday and Monday evenings, he is scheduled to be the guest at the Pebble Beach home of a longtime friend and political supporter.

The Monterey County Herald published the names of the host and his

IT'S The Chief, not "the Boss" — Clinton, not Springsteen.

But the scramble for tickets and the expected long waits in line before Monday's dedication ceremony give the event the trappings of a rock concert.

"People will have to arrive very early to go through the metal detectors," explained Holly White, CSU news and public-information officer. "They should arrive at 8:30 (a.m.), but they won't be sleeping on the grounds — it's not a rock concert."

wife, as well as their exact house and location.

"I can say it doesn't make any difference," said Holly White, CSUMB news and public information officer. "One expects that information may get out. The security is going to protect that home whether the public knows about it or not."

Reed would not comment on how security would be managed for Clinton when he plays a scheduled round of golf at an undisclosed venue. "Yes, there are broader concerns when the president does what he is doing — going to many locations, but, believe me, this is nothing unusual. He has played golf in a variety of locations."

Shops in the Spotlight

Goph & Co.

MASTER CRAFTSMAN
Goph Albitz has designed and made exquisite jewelry in Carmel for more than 20 years.

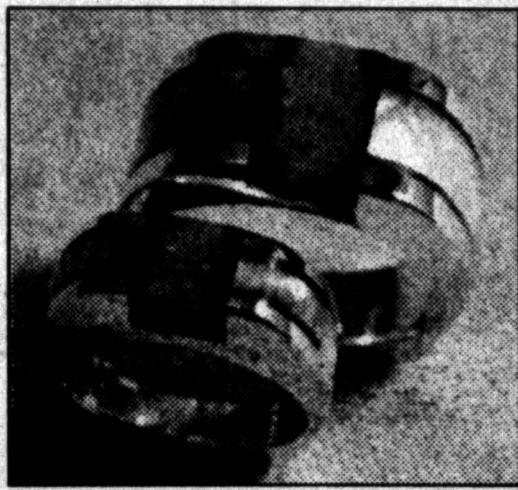

Albitz's award winning designs — he's best known for his inlay and diamond stacking rings — have been shown in fine galleries and shops throughout the country.

With Albitz's industrial aerospace design experience and unique use of more than 35 different stones, his inlay pieces are extraordinary. The newest collection is now on display at Goph and Co. in the Mission Patio between Fifth and Sixth.

The shop offers a wide range of jewelry, from pearls to bezel-set stones to hand-made one-of-a-kind pieces, including elegant pieces made with Australian opals.

Custom designing also is an economically clever way to create a new and special piece from stones set in jewelry that is no longer worn.

Goph and Co. is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday through Saturday. Further information, or an appointment, is available by calling 625-1001.

Holiday Hutch

It's Christmas all year long at the Holiday Hutch. The shop is brimming with fabulous decorations and tree lights for your home and Christmas tree. There also are wonderful handmade ornaments, which are great for special gifts during the Christmas holidays, or throughout the year.

Other items include Radko glass ornaments, nativities, beautiful handcrafted eggs, a complete selection of Steinbach, Ulbricht, Erzgebirge and Austrian nutcrackers, Anri woodcarvings and Byers Choice carollers.

The Holiday Hutch Christmas shop also carries Department 56 Villages, which allow you to create a scene reminiscent of your home town.

Visit the Holiday Hutch shop at the Mission Patio on Mission between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, or call 624-5105. In addition, there is a shop at the Crossroads Shopping Center on Rio Road, telephone 625-1656.

Malcolm Moran Studios

Malcolm Moran is noted for a unique line of children's sculpture reflecting more than 30 poses, which are shown in 40 galleries throughout the country.

The appeal of Malcolm Moran's sculpted children is universal. The artist shows a special gift for capturing the essence of a child's freedom, simplicity and spontaneity. All of his sculptures stand on organic bases integrating direct metal with the cast figures.

Moran's famous "Boy with Kite" is the prototype for all of his children's sculptures.

The success of Moran's work is rooted in the belief that art should be lived with and enjoyed by everyone, not just the very wealthy.

It's worth a visit just to see these wonderful art pieces at Moran's Mission Patio Studio on Mission between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel.

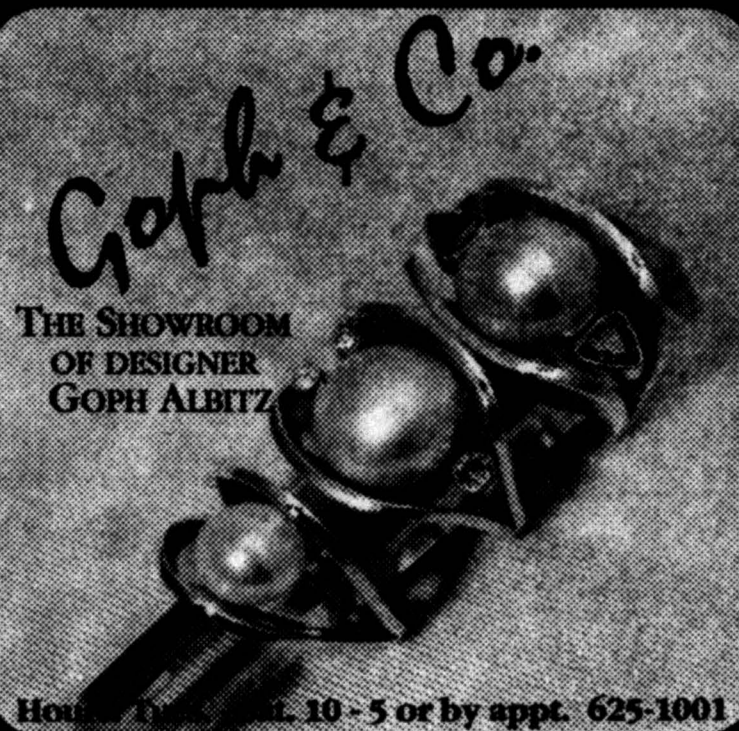

Further information is available by calling the gallery's director, Jodi Moran, at 626-3300.

Peninsulans wanting to catch Clinton in action should stay alert

Before an audience of several thousand, President Clinton is scheduled to speak at 10:45 a.m. Opening for the president will be "some kind of entertainment," as yet undetermined.

Unlike a big rock fest, no one will be buying an overpriced ticket. It's free — that is, if you can get in.

Tickets anyone?

If the ticketing situation is a headache, or at least a muddle, the confusion's only begun.

As of Wednesday, there was no information available on how members of the public could secure a place for themselves. Therefore, those interested should stay on the alert, starting this weekend, for television and radio public service announcements for how they can pursue tickets on a "first-come, first-serve" basis, White said.

Here is a status report:

■ The city halls are the clearing-houses for tickets.

For now, invited guests (public officials, volunteers in base-conversion projects, etc.) can redeem their letters of invitation for tickets for themselves, friends and family.

■ The so-called "blue" tickets are for the VIPs, who will be seated closest to the presidential action, each with one guest. Each person with a green ticket can collect three more for guests.

■ At present, it is not known how many "red" tickets will be available for the general public, for that depends on how many people redeem their invitations. These red tickets may mean standing room only, but the details have not been finalized.

"Our hope is that whoever wants to come will be able to, but we have to be well-organized," White said, noting that the federal security people are keeping close tabs on the event. "This can't be a free-for-all."

The City of Carmel has been given 2,200 green and red tickets to hand out. As of Tuesday afternoon, 251 tickets had been distributed.

Police Profiles

CARMEL POLICE DEPARTMENT

Meet Phil Nash

OFFICER PHIL Nash was hired by the Carmel Police Department in January 1994.

A true Carmel native, Phil has had a keen interest in law enforcement since he graduated from high school in 1988. With the goal of becoming a Carmel Police Officer ever present in his mind, Phil obtained an Associate's Degree in Administration of Justice from Monterey Peninsula College in 1990. From there, he went to Sacramento State, graduating with a bachelor's degree in social science in 1992.

His law enforcement career began in 1991 when he was hired as a Reserve Police Officer in Del Rey Oaks. He worked in that capacity while attending the first session of the Police Academy at Monterey Peninsula College, graduating in June 1993, at the top of his class.

In his current assignment, Phil can be found riding his bicycle in the business area and along Scenic Drive. He is always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone who needs it.

No matter how insignificant the problem, Phil can be counted on to be there. Officer-Nash is truly proud to be working in the community in which he was born.

Phil's hobbies include horseback riding, cooking (he's really quite the gourmet) and bicycle riding. In his spare time, he teaches at the Monterey Peninsula College Police Academy and serves on the Monterey County Sheriff's Advisory Board.

'Police Profiles' will run every other week in The Pine Cone, and features different members of the Carmel Police Department. It is the newspaper's hope that citizens, through this series, will become better acquainted with those who serve the community in such an important — albeit sometimes nameless — capacity.

Labor Day boating warning issued

LABOR DAY weekend is a big weekend for boating fatalities, according to the national Boat Owners Association.

As many as 40 people will die in boating accidents this weekend, the recreational group says, adding that many of the fatalities could be avoided if more of the nation's boaters followed basic boating safety rules. Up to 50 percent of fatal accidents involve alcohol use by the boat operator or passengers.

The Association estimates that about 80 percent of the victims in fatal boating accidents aren't wearing life jackets, and about 30 percent are passengers in overloaded boats.

County ambulance plan draws fire; supervisors to select from 3 bidders

Village fire stations, respectively.

While CRFA's proposal would place 12 ambulances in the field, Peninsula Medics offered 14 ambulances with a minimum of 10 units in the field at all times, according to the report.

Carmel Fire Chief Bill Hill noted all three proposals would take an ambulance out of Carmel.

"We have been very spoiled to have our own ambulance right here in town," he said.

CRFA's proposal places an ambulance at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula and another at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station.

Peninsula Medics President Brian Sinnott said his offer includes having an ambulance at four local locations: CHOMP, Rancho San Carlos Road, Rio Road and Big Sur.

"Without an ambulance at Mid Carmel Valley, there will be a longer response time than what the residents enjoy now," Smith contended.

Mayor White noted that when Carmel was required in 1989 to provide a higher level of emergency service, it lost the use of a free ambulance provided by the American Red Cross.

"We ended up with a costly ambulance service," he said. "Now we won't even have that."

Despite White's concerns, county officials believe the overall service will be improved considerably.

Hill explained the accepted response time for urban areas is eight minutes or less, 90 percent of the time. He added the response time from CHOMP to Carmel is usually five minutes.

"I don't see any major changes for Carmel residents," Hill said. "The fire department's emergency medical technicians will just be that much more critical. They can get almost anywhere in Carmel within four minutes."

"If Peninsula Medics gets the contract it will definitely reduce service. But in the county's defense, an eight-minute response time is considered very good."

While there is concern about the response time from Rancho San Carlos to Carmel Valley Village and Cachagua, Sinnott noted the response time for rural areas is 12 minutes, and 45 minutes or less for wilderness areas.

"We have enough ambulances to handle all calls in the required time," he said. "With our system, when one unit responds to an emergency, another one moves to the vacant location. We can fill in the gap anywhere in the county."

Another aspect of the consolidation calls for developing a medical dispatch center, according to Melton. When a person calls for emergency service, their call is forwarded to the center, where a medically trained dispatcher provides medical instruction to the caller until an ambulance arrives.

"This effort is to raise the standard of emergency service in Monterey County, even if it costs more," Melton said.

While Supervisor Sam Karas said he couldn't speculate how the board would vote Tuesday, he added the current ambulance system is fragmented.

"The direction we are going will provide an efficient service for everyone in the county," Karas said. "And the people in Big Sur, Carmel and Carmel Valley will be well taken care of. Whoever gets the contract will have to live up to their obligations."

Briefly Speaking

Today: Domestic violence session set

THE YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula will present a conference on domestic violence from 2 to 5 p.m. today at Del Monte Shopping Center. The gathering's specific location will be between Macy's and Mervyn's, across from Lechter's.

The keynote speaker will be Det. Sgt. Anne O'Dell, who is a 20-year veteran with the San Diego Police Department and a consultant for ABC News on the O.J. Simpson trial.

The conference is open to the public and costs $10 per person.

More information: 649-0834.

Today: Whales focus of lecture

THE AMERICAN Cetacean Society, Monterey Bay chapter, will host the presentation "Blue and Humpback Whales Along the California Coast," at 7:30 tonight at Hopkins Marine Station Lecture Hall in Monterey.

John Calambokidis of Cascadia Research Collective will present the free program.

More information: 372-0577.

Monday: Ozone awareness rally set

IN RECOGNITION of International Ozone Awareness Day, Lorna Moffat — producer of the "Earth Talk" environmental awareness show on Monterey's KNRY Radio — announces that a rally will be staged at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the K-Mart parking lot, Seaside.

She says the gathering aims to give President Clinton, who will be speaking that day at Fort Ord, the support he needs to stand firm on the Montreal Protocol's ban of "dangerous chemicals that threaten our precious ozone layer."

The United Nations set International Ozone Awareness Day on Sept. 15. Moffat asks each participant on Monday to bring "a picnic lunch, a sign, a blanket, music and words of inspiration."

Tuesday: Congressional update due

THE NEW Forum will present Rep. Sam Farr, D-Carmel, speaking on "What's Happening in Congress" at a noon luncheon Tuesday at The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

The cost is $15 per person. Reservations and more information: 375-4518.

Sept. 7: Blood drive scheduled

THE CARMEL Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula will hold a joint blood drive from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 7, at the American Legion Hall, Eighth and Dolores, Carmel. A complimentary lunch will be served.

Donating blood takes 10 to 15 minutes and is done under sterile conditions. A local anesthetic can be given if requested. Donors must be 17 years old or 16 years old with parental consent, and in good health. All blood donated will stay in the community.

Further information: 624-6921.

Sept. 8: D.A. to discuss elder abuse

DISTRICT ATTORNEY Dean Flipppo and Chief Investigator Sue Stryker will speak on "Elder Abuse, Crime Prevention, Consumer/Mail Fraud" at the AARP Chapter meeting at 1 p.m. Friday, Sept. 8, in the Meals on Wheels Senior Center, 700 Jewel Ave.,

Pacific Grove.

Self-defense exercises, video clips on AARP and a tribute to AARP founder Dr. Ethel Andrus also are planned for the meeting.

More information: 394-2965.

Sept. 14: Emergency class to start

CARMEL FIRE Department's Neighborhood Emergency Response Team (NERT) class starts at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14 and continues each Thursday for seven weeks.

The class is open to Carmel residents only, and is limited to 25 students, who will hone their survival skills and emergency preparedness.

Taught by local firemen, the program includes classroom study plus hands-on training situations. After completion of the program, participants will have the opportunity to work as part of an emergency response team.

Registration and more information: Leslie Fenton at 624-1718.

Sept. 16: Arthritis self-help class set

AN ARTHRITIS self-help course, sponsored by the Arthritis Foundation and the Stanford Arthritis Center, will be offered next month in Carmel.

Participants will learn about arthritis, its medications and the latest in exercise and pain management techniques.

The materials fee is $15; fee waivers are available.

The course runs from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, and will continue for at least four weeks at the Carmel Foundation on Lincoln Avenue in Carmel.

More information: 800/464-6240 or 415/723-7935.

School board to grapple with remodeling nightmare

By DELIN CORMENY

THERE WILL be a special meeting of the Carmel Unified School District board tonight to discuss a stalled remodeling project at Carmel River School.

A portion of the school was to be remodeled to accommodate a computer lab by the start of this school year, but electrical problems have more than doubled the estimated cost. As a result, the redesign hasn't yet begun.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. at the River School library. Architects and electrical engineers will present updated cost estimates, a timeline and information about the electrical capacity. The board also invites public input.

According to Daniel Hightower, CUSD board president, the study session will be limited in scope to the computer lab issue. It will not address the future of the school building, which has been uncertain in the past.

There has been discussion about moving, expanding, closing or building a new school, but Hightower said tonight's meeting will not address those possibilities.

"There's not an active movement to move River School now," he said. "There's not even funds to do it."

No decision will be made regarding the fate of the remodeling project until the Sept. 14 school board meeting.

■ In other news, proponents of Sunset Center's Room 16 requested that CUSD support their efforts to remain in their present art studio rather than be moved to Room 18.

The adult education art students are scheduled to move to the smaller studio in order to accommodate city recreation functions, but they say Room 18 is too small and the lighting is inadequate. About 400 people have signed a petition in support of the students.

Several students presented their arguments and asked for formal support from the CUSD board during its Aug. 24 meeting.

The board opted not to take a stand on the matter, but will send a letter of concern to the City of Carmel, which has mandated the move.

Although the final decision rests with the city and not with the school board, CUSD superintendent Joe Jaconette commented, "We support adult education and want to be sure nothing is done to damage it."

■ The future of five paintings which have been hanging in district restrooms for the past 30 years is also to be decided at the next regular school board meeting, Sept. 14.

The paintings, all by regional artists, have a fair market value of about $18,000 to $26,000.

The board must decide whether to sell the works in Butterfield & Butterfield's December auction, loan them to a museum, put them on display or keep them.

The artists are E. Cashion MacLennan, Mary Deneale Morgan, Catherine Sideneck and W.C. Watts.

It was the red river trout that stole Hart's heart, not the rice...

JOE from page 20

Crossroads the other P.M.

He was in a party of four — no Donnas. In fact, there wasn't even rice on the table. (He had Red River Trout.)

FURTHER evidence that madcap John Foley's Fish Ranch is catching on:

Clint Eastwood dined there Saturday night in a party of four, and yes, the R woman was among them.

Not Donna R., silly, I mean Dina R., as in Ruiz, KSBW-TV's comely 30-year-old news anchor, who is Eastwood's current main news.

P.S. — Hart said he hasn't decided yet whether to run for his old U.S. Senate seat in Colorado next year (he's mulling), but he may be relieved to know that neither Clint nor Dina will run against him!

(Look, little pluses help when you're down.)

CARMEL's Alan Shugart, CEO of $4 billion Seagate Technology Inc. in Scotts Valley, noted an irony in last week's unforgettable here when we mentioned "caca" in the same column with lawyer bashing.

The wry Shugart points out merrily that the California Trial Lawyers Assn. (CTLA) recently changed its name to Consumer Attorneys of California, or CACA!

HEY, I thought we said there'd be no lawyer bashing in this column, and here Shugart sneaks one in in broad daylight! Got to tighten up around here.

LASTLY ... KCBA-TV's Bill Piggott, who was given a new title last month after five years as news director, has been 86'd by new G.M. Mark Faylor.

Wait, that's not quite right. Piggott wasn't 86'd, the station says, his JOB (Director of Original Programming) was simply eliminated.

It all feels the same to Piggott, though. (Beware of corporate semantics.)

Mission Fields advisors sought

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Sam Karas is seeking applicants for a new Advisory Committee to County Service Area No. 50 for the Mission Fields housing subdivision in Carmel.

The duties of the committee are to give advice to the board of supervisors and to the public works department on flood control drainage and maintenance services along the north bank of the Carmel River west of Highway 1.

Committee members will be appointed by supervisors and must reside in the Mission Fields area, bordered on the east by Highway 1, on the south by the Carmel River, and on the north by Rio Road, including Oliver Road.

Initially, five members will be recruited for terms of three years, although some will be staggered to serve less. Meeting time and frequency will be arranged by the members and should occur approximately once a month in the initial phase.

Interested applicants residing in the Mission Fields area are encouraged to send a letter by Sept. 8 stating their desire to serve, a brief resume, including home address and daytime telephone number to: Supervisor Sam Karas, 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 001, Monterey 93940.

Terry and Betsy Davis' faith produces peninsula triathlon

By JOHN DETRO
Pine Cone Religion Editor

THIS BIBLICAL quotation is on the official T-shirts and newsletter of the newborn sports offering called Triathlon at Pacific Grove:

Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press toward the goal to win the prize.

—Phillipians 3:13, 14

"Everything we do," said event co-manager Betsy Davis, "comes out of our faith. And I mean 100 percent — business, playtime, family. All."

Her husband, Terry, the other manager, smiles and nods agreement.

The two professionals — he in county recreation and sports event production, she from the non-profit development sphere — got married on Aug. 6, 1994.

Each brought two offspring from a former marriage. "Our kids," Terry said, "range in age from four years to two dozen years. Our oldest graduated just recently from Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo with her degree in sports marketing."

Betsy and Terry fused their abilities, too, when they formed Tri-California Event Management and put together the first annual Triathlon at Pacific Grove. Some 400 entrants are expected to run, swim and bike race for prize money on Saturday, Sept. 9 (see Sports).

'Absolutely in love'

So what led these two toward the altar and the sacred words?

"I fell absolutely in love with Betsy," he said.

Betsy: "God said we should get married on that date. I was scared and kind of waffled on God's will. But (smiling) it really was God's will."

Terry: "We took the leap of faith. Then the International Triathlon Union asked me to suggest West Coast sites. God presented the PG Triathlon as an opportunity for a new business."

Terry has a 13-year track record producing the yearly Wildflower Triathlon Festival at Lake San Antonio. And Tri-California takes charge of the Tinley Mountain Bike Triathlon each November in San Luis Obispo.

The family attends services at the non-denominational Calvary Chapel of the Monterey Peninsula. Calvary now meets at PG's Lighthouse Cinemas on Sunday mornings. A brand new church is being built near Highway 68 out by the Monterey Peninsula Airport.

Another gift

"The scriptural quotation on the T-shirts," Betsy said, "is another gift. God gave it to us for the area triathlon."

"It was a one-year planning process," Terry noted.

"The Lord is in charge of it all," Betsy confirmed.

Betsy adds that she was raised in the Catholic faith. "And 12 years ago, I rededicated myself — as an adult — to The Lord."

"I grew up in the Southern Baptist Church and came to The Lord when I was seven or eight years old," Terry recalled. "Not many years after that, I went away and tried to take care of myself. It didn't work. Coming back to Him in March through May of 1994, I was stronger of heart."

"We were baptised together on July 19 of that year — right off Asilomar Beach," said Betsy, who added that Pastor Jim Sheets from Terry's former church in King City was with them.

"We've dedicated our lives to The Lord," Betsy said. "We love the church we attend, and the people we fellowship with."

"There are miracles every day. We read The Bible," Terry added. "It's a book of life. It tells me everything I need to do that's right and correct."

"Being dedicated means living by the fruits of The Spirit," Betsy said.

"Being dedicated gives me strength," Terry con-

Even with their first peninsula triathlon event coming up shortly, Terry and Betsy Davis could take a break with two of the four Davis offspring — Rachel, 8, and Nick, 4. The couple's faith in religion has helped fuel their driving energy behind the birth of the first-ever Triathlon at Pacific Grove, which is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 9.

cluded. "I don't have to worry about things."

Proceeds from the triathlon will aid Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary and city-run youth programs in PG as well as their church.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams
A French woman's 120th birthday this year drew much attention by news media for two reasons: Jeanne Calment was the oldest living person whose age has been documented, and she had some comments about it. "I see badly, I hear badly...but everything's fine." Also, now that she is famous, "I intend to enjoy it as long as possible." A French researcher who is studying 756 centenarians said: "In general centenarians are people who haven't overdone alcohol or tobacco and who temperamentally don't get too excited about unpleasant experiences." Mlle. Calment's father lived to 93, her mother to 86.

In 1907 when Joseph Fuchs was seven he began violin lessons at New York's Juilliard School. Turning 95 this year, he was still at the school—teaching and performing. At a birthday concert he played Bach Concerto for two violins with Glenn Dicterow, concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic. "He still sounds terrific," Dicterow reported. "Both the left and the right hand are still working," Fuchs said. "So is the equipment in my head."

Prep grid teams to be tested in scrimmages

■ CHS: Padres eagerly await debut against Seaside; Kelly upbeat after Red-Gray game

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

IT'S NOT a matter of raw nerves. It's a much healthier state, says Carmel High School varsity football coach Mike Kelly.

The first-year mentor made that evaluation about his players as they prepared for Friday's scrimmage on a practice field of the hosting Seaside High Spartans.

"They're excited to go on in there and see what we've got," Kelly said. "You never know where you stand until you suit up and do it — so our guys are excited to find out how good they can be."

Starting at 4 p.m., both the varsity and junior varsity squads will begin scrimmages on separate fields. This will be their first 1995 action against another school. In different athletic leagues, Carmel and Seaside do not clash during the regular season.

The format: Each team will have possession of the ball for 30 plays, trading off 10-play sequences. And then each will have five more plays from the five-yard line.

"I'll go with our first string-guys," Kelly said. "I agree with the players that it's time to discover what we're made of. The more, the better — and I do mean Carmel fans who can come out and support our efforts."

Kelly was upbeat about Saturday's intrasquad Red-Gray scrimmage at CHS.

"I feel pretty good about it," he said. "The guys weren't afraid of contact. And they seemed to be having fun."

Asked if he'd care to single out players, the coach replied: "No — I was pleased with just about everybody. The passing and running games continue to firm up. The guys found out that — 'Hey, we've got some firepower here!'"

"Our line has been unsettled due to a couple of injuries. There were signs Saturday that our defense will be really pretty good."

■ Next week: The Pine Cone will publish a special prep football section with previews and profiles.

■ RLS: MTAL Jamboree kicks off Friday in PG

By JOHN DAVI

THE ROBERT Louis Stevenson varsity and junior football teams will make their 1995 debut Friday night at Pacific Grove High School in the annual Mission Trail Athletic League Jamboree.

Three weeks of practices, several two-a-day efforts included, will culminate in the first live action for the Pirates, who square off against PG and Gonzales High.

The JV scrimmage will kick off at 5 p.m., with the varsity following at 7 p.m.

The Jamboree, thinned from its usual five or six teams, will involve three 40-play games with each team playing two games — one against each of the other two teams. Teams will have 20 plays on offense followed by 20 on defense.

RLS varsity head coach Jeff Young shares the anticipation of the '95 lidlifter with his players.

"We're looking forward to seeing our team play against somebody besides ourselves," Young said. "There's a lot of good, hard work going on out on the field."

RLS gets the regular season off to an official start Saturday, Sept. 9, when it travels to Santa Cruz High for a non-league matchup against the Cardinals.

First PG Triathlon draws more than 400 entrants

By JOHN DETRO

Amateurs and professionals alike will compete

FROM THE pioneering pro Scott Tinley to local adult amateurs and youngsters now on this country's national team — the first annual Triathlon at Pacific Grove will claim some 400 entrants by the big day.

And the action-packed event likely will attract 3,000 or so spectators.

Those estimates came this week from Terry and Betsy Davis, PG residents whose Tri-California Management won city approval for the competition and has overseen every planning element in partnership with volunteers by the dozens.

The triathlon is all set for Saturday, Sept. 9, with Lovers Point being the widespread action's hub. There's no admission charge to onlookers.

Amateurs will start at 7 a.m. Professionals (San Diego's Tinley and about two dozen others from various parts of the nation) will join with the Elites (seasoned amateurs) and kick off four hours later.

Area professionals taking part are Prunedale's Cherie Cook — just back from a meet in Japan — and Terri Schneider from Aptos. Mostly, though, the PG Triathlon will be welcoming amateurs.

"Among the youngest are a dozen from places like Reno, Morro Bay and Santa Barbara," Terry said. "One's 12 years old, and they're on the national squad. Some certainly will qualify for the 2000 Olympics."

'Spectator friendly'

The Davises described the three courses as "very spectator friendly." A closer look:

Swimming — Starts from Lovers Point. Competitors will go two loops for a total of 1.5 kilometers (.93 mile).

Biking — Starts at The Tinnery parking lot; four loops for a 40-kilometer total (24.8 miles).

Running — Starts and finishes at the recreation trail near Lovers Point. Total of 10 kilometers (6 miles).

The top male and female athlete each will pocket $1,000. Second place male and female — $750 each. Third place — $500 each. Tickets contributed by American Airlines also will be used as special prizes.

Proceeds will be divided: Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary, PG Recreation Department (youth programs) and the non-denominational church attended by the Davises — Calvary Chapel of the Monterey Peninsula. (On today's Religion Page, they tell how faith works in their professional and personal lives.)

Other attractions

"Young people from our church will do puppet shows for the entertainment," Terry said. "There'll be a jazz trio — and other musical units. Also, a committee is shopping for more acts."

And then there will be the fitness exposition area — 15 booths of goods related to sports. The announcers include Canadian Don Ryder, who announces for the International Triathlon Union (ITU) World Cup Series.

The Davises, Betsy said, still seek a title sponsor ($60,000) for a "significant professional purse and international TV production. We believe that we'll have this in time for next year's TPG. Then we can become an ITU Cup Series Event."

Terry: "We also hope that our journey leads to the year 2000 with TPG becoming the U.S. Olympic qualifying site for the Summer Games in Sydney (Australia)."

For the past 13 years, Terry has produced the county parks department's Wildflower Triathlon Festival at Lake San Antonio. The ITU came to him for advice when the organization wanted a West Coast location.

"Terry thought of Pacific Grove at once," his wife said. "We live here. And the area's great beauty made it a natural."

Today there's a TPC board that holds meetings on a regular basis. The roster of "event directors and key coordinators" fills two columns in the latest TPC news bulletin.

Related doings

And here are some public events planned in conjunction with the triathlon:

■ PG Pasta Party from 4 to 10 p.m. at the Griffin Senior Center on Friday, Sept. 8. Several restaurants are getting together on the meal ($10 per). Live music and prize drawings.

■ From 6 to 7 p.m. the same day. Recreational 6.2-mile bike ride along the triathlon course with PG Mayor Sandy Koffman.

■ From 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 9. Thomas Kinkadee Victory Reception and Art Show at the Monterey Plaza Hotel. His painting of Lovers Point will be auctioned.

Welcome aboard, Joe

Dreaded Bland disease

Dear Editor:

What a relief! I mean, to finally learn what happened to "My Bag." I thought good, old Joe had gone 'round the bend, or maybe that he had been infected by that Bland disease. Instead, he was a victim of it.

So, over the hill my friends and I go every Thursday to get your paper with all the news that others do not see fit to print.

Fitzpatrick's a winner

Dear Editor:

My jaw dropped when I picked up the Aug. 24 issue of The Pine Cone to read the words of Joe Fitzpatrick. I don't know why it surprised me, knowing this curmudgeon's penchant for speaking the truth behind his cloak of humor.

As for the Monterey County Herald, it follows that my surprise came from the realization that I no longer have come to expect an "adult" newspaper, let alone that I would ever be able to read an intelligent, truthful thought from a column.

And, after all, we get so much local news. Isn't it more interesting to learn that 30 people drowned in the Ganges River? Bland could not get any blander!

Thursday after Thursday, I have read Joe's witticisms and thrilled at his name droppings, but deep in my heart was the wish that he would step from his cocoon of TV folk, Pebble Beach people and restaurateurs to hobnob with yet another group — the artist!

You know, those beings who are constantly hit for and always cough up their art every time they're asked, for charity's sake. Many of them are so poor they need charity themselves.

Boy, what a fertile field for fun and pathos. I should know. I represent 39 sculptors at Sculpture House and Gardens in the Carmel Highlands.

And, last but certainly not least, congratulations to you Mr. Editor for knowing a winner when he reads one.

Room 16 fallout

Dear Editor:

By sweeping the art students out of the door of their so compatible cottage (Room 16, Sunset Center) into a considerably less easel-worthy one, they will be going a long way toward destroying the world-renowned Carmel mystique.

A legitimate user group

Dear Editor:

A recent letter to the editor expressed concern about user safety if mountain bikes are allowed in Garland Park, Carmel Valley. The writer's concern is legitimate but fortunately data from other parks allowing bikes proves safety is not an issue.

The other regional parks or open space districts (East Bay with 80,000 acres; Mid-Peninsula with 36,000 acres; Riverside with 50,000 acres; and Marin with 10,500 acres) all allow mountain bikes on their trails, which are at least five feet wide.

None of them has had a significant safety problem because of mountain bikes, and all of them have areas of steep terrain, just like Garland Park. Closer to home, there have been no safety problems at Toro Park or the Cooper Ranch section of Garland Park where mountain bikes are allowed.

Another concern of hikers and equestrians is that allowing bikes will detract from the peaceful, serene quality of Garland Park. However, Garland is not the private property of hikers and equestrians.

The Public Resources Code, which governs Garland, provides that parks are for "public recreation, for the use and enjoyment of all of the inhabitants of the district." It is not fair to exclude a legitimate user group (mountain bikers) simply because equestrians and hikers are allowed to use the park.

All of us need to learn to share our treasured resources and work together to minimize conflict. Thoughtful planning should be used to reduce conflict, instead of simply excluding a legitimate user group from enjoying Garland Park.

Pebble Beach Co. responds

Dear Editor:

Since we had no opportunity to comment on the Aug. 24 Pine Cone front-page article concerning Pebble Beach Co.'s Development Plan, I wanted to point out a few facts that might serve to better balance the story:

■ The affordable housing component of the company's Development Plan is neither a recent development nor a novel one. Monterey County's Affordable Housing Ordinance requires all residential projects to include an affordable housing component, with 15 percent of the units required to be "affordable" as defined by the county.

This component is required to be provided on-site as part of the project unless the Monterey County Board of Supervisors allows the affordable housing requirement to be met in other ways. Two other ways the requirement can be met are to pay an "in-lieu" fee to the county so the county can provide the affordable housing units or to build affordable housing units in another location off-site.

■ The Pebble Beach Co. has requested that the county accept an in-lieu fee payment to satisfy our affordable housing requirement.

Because the final decision on whether to accept the in-lieu fee or another alternative cannot be made by the county until the public hearing process, the Draft Environmental Impact Report for our project must include an analysis of the potential impacts of providing the affordable housing units on-site.

■ The article in The Pine Cone could be read to suggest that the Draft EIR will make a recommendation that affordable housing be included within the Del Monte Forest. That is not the case.

The Draft EIR is intended to be an informational document that provides the county and the public with factual information regarding the environmental impacts of a proposed project. The Draft EIR will evaluate the potential impacts of on-site affordable housing, but will not make a recommendation one way or the other as to whether the affordable housing should be provided on-site.

■ Pebble Beach Co.'s position on affordable housing is that there is a substantial need for affordable housing in other areas of the county, and that the affordable housing requirement for our Lot Program should be satisfied by directing this housing to an area of the county where a greater need exists.

The Pebble Beach Co.'s position is consistent with, and has been endorsed by, the Del Monte Forest Property Owners Association. We will continue to work with the Del Monte Forest Property Owners Association to assure that their wishes in this regard are respected.

Where to go?

Dear Editor:

There is probably no quicker way to destroy a city's reputation of friendliness, hospitality and civility than to lock out users from its restrooms on a busy summer weekend. This is exactly what happened last Saturday when the public facilities were locked until after noon.

Volunteers working at the Carmel Resident Association's monthly beach cleanup at the foot of Ocean between 9:30 a.m. and noon were approached by one frustrated, irate tourist after another who urgently needed the facilities. We directed, and in one case drove, them to the First Murphy and Devendorf facilities only to find, to our dismay, that these also were closed.

Three telephone calls to the police and contact with a patrolman driving by asking them to contact public works were unproductive. Finally, after a call to the city administrator at his home, a policeman arrived at 12:05 p.m. to open the beach facility.

This is not the first time this has happened. On another occasion the beach restroom was still locked at mid-morning. The city has a $40,000 contract with a private firm responsible for cleaning and opening the restrooms. Is there no provision for supervision or backup?

Let's hope that a system is put in place to avoid a repetition of this bureaucratic bungling.

So will they come back?

Dear Editor:

In reference to the city restrooms being locked until after noon on Saturday (see previous letter on page 25), I have but one question:

Since the Carmel City Council has recently voted to spend $100,000 to promote tourism to Carmel, shouldn't we be treating tourists better once they come here?

Constance S. Wright
Carmel

(Editor's Note: Jere Kersnar, Carmel city administrator, says the private firm hired by the city to maintain and open the restrooms was at fault for not having them open as scheduled. Kersnar further relates that, pursuant to the contract with the city, the firm has been fined for the oversight. The city administrator adds that steps have been taken to ensure a repeat of last Saturday's situation doesn't occur again.)

Dam gobbledygook

Dear Editor:

At the Aug. 7 Monterey Peninsula Water Management District meeting, many questions were fielded by both the directors and their staff. Issues and points were raised during the public opposition statements relating to the proposed New Los Padres Dam.

I interpreted many board responses in much the same way. To illustrate my point I will share with you how I perceived this exchange.

To the question of the relationship between the final cost of the dam and its relationship in establishing water rates and "average" monthly bill increases, answers sounded to me something like this:

"In light of the open-ended feature of the financing package and the contingency package still trapped in the cost analysis software program, it is difficult to address the issue within the parameters set forth with references to final cost estimates since any increase will be mitigated over the long and short term through revenue bonds and/or the infusion of capital from the private sector to assure that whatever funding is used will be tested under normal acre foot usage as long as this usage comes from the Rocky Mountain High Water Authority within the guidelines set forth in the EIR article A subtitle 6B1-2C which provides for free water as a God-given right to all living creatures including the customers of Cal-Am with exception of golf courses, hotels and shopping malls!"

The above "dramatization" is indicative of the double-talk rhetoric that we have come to expect to hear from most politicians and is deserving of our chagrin in attempting to make any sense out of what is being told to us by the MPWMD. Those opposed to the dam as well as those in support share in the frustration!

Ira S. Friedman

Dam's benefit zone

Dear Editor:

I'd like to clarify why certain areas of Fort Ord can vote on the proposed New Los Padres Dam, while those in Cachagua can't.

One must live within the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and be within the benefit zone in order to vote on a district project. The State Legislature created the district and set its boundary in 1978. It includes portions of Fort Ord and excludes much of the Cachagua area. Only the legislature can change the boundary.

The project benefit zone includes areas of Fort Ord that are within the MPWMD. This is the same benefit zone used in 1993 for the desalination vote. Member cities and the county set the zone boundaries, not the district.

The Engineer's Report defines the project for the vote. Areas of Fort Ord within the benefit zone but outside the Cal-Am service area are not slated for project water.

However, a jurisdiction may choose to "stretch" its allotted amount of project water to serve these areas in the future, but only after formal environmental review and agency approvals. Fort Ord residents must pay for any water received. There would be no increase to the 3,381 acre-foot amount of project water for growth to serve these areas.

There is the possibility of temporary water marketing in the early years of the project for Fort Ord areas within the MPWMD. This action would also require environmental review and approvals. No water can be served if the supply to existing customers would be jeopardized.

The project vote entails a $116.5 million limit on the revenue bond amount. Once approved, this amount cannot be changed without another public vote. The same is true for the 3,381 acre-feet slated for growth. Project construction through some other means would not have these guarantees.

Chairwoman, MPWMD

Carmel Commentary

By WILLIAM GLUCK and JASON WACHS

Traffic impacts, water availability still register as realistic concerns with Rancho San Carlos project

RANCHO SAN Carlos has been likened to a sleeping giant. Long operated as a working cattle ranch, this huge parcel of land, the size of the entire Monterey Peninsula, has awakened.

Takatoshi Soda began the process of transition from ranch to resort when he filed partnership papers on Feb. 15, 1990, on behalf of Japanese investors. Planning and public relations by the partnership's local executives from the Pacific Union Corp. recently culminated in the submission of an Environmental Impact Report.

The EIR anticipates some of the realities of the proposed residential and commercial subdivision of the Ranch, which consists of two former land grants situated in a significant region of the Carmel River watershed.

Numerous interested parties responded to the EIR, and we can only skim some of the highlights. The issues that seem to concern most respondents appear to be those that directly bear on their lifestyles:

- An increase in traffic congestion.
- The endangerment of waning water resources, and;
- The ripple effects of a new resort community of thousands of residents alongside the valley.

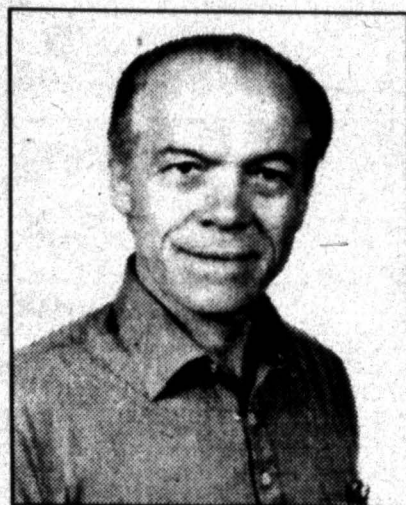

The EIR indicates the possibilities of specific environmental damage in spite of the developer's intent to turn nearly nine-tenths of the property into a "preserve."

The wish list

There are, of course, those who feel that this substantial project harbors fewer adverse impacts than expected. Still others hope that Monterey County will somehow reduce the wish list of the developers. Briefly, here is what is proposed:

- An 18-hole golf course.

- A convenience store.
- An equestrian center.
- A service station.
- A hotel with 110 rooms.
- A 40-unit lodge.
- Employee housing, and;
- A total of 350 homes of "unlimited" size — each permitted one principal residence, one senior-citizen unit, one caretaker unit, one guest house, and miscellaneous accessory buildings. Some of the housing parcels would be permitted to install vineyards and to graze cattle.

William Gluck

One concerned party wonders about the report's discrepancy with regard to impacts on redwood forests and the strategy of deeding areas to the "preserve" only as development progresses.

The water-well tests are questioned — performed during an exceptionally wet year, they may represent potentially unrealistic data. And the possible disruption of nesting golden eagles and Cooper's hawks by ongoing construction work is not adequately addressed.

Also, the EIR neither reflects additional volumes of traffic generated by employee families living on the premises and their visiting friends, nor those trips by golfers who don't live on the Ranch.

County public works says: "We disagree with the applicant's level-of-service traffic analysis." And the Sierra Club feels that traffic generated on Robinson Canyon Road is understated. Indeed, "granny" units, guest houses and caretaker's residences can often generate more traffic than principal residences.

Impacts on traffic

The traffic mitigation measures proposed appear to be inadequate and Monterey County Planning Commissioner Moe Orrett, a professional civil and traffic engineer, states that the report's "Summary of Traffic Impacts and Mitigation Measures" is misleading and not acceptable to guarantee mitigation."

The University of California, Santa Cruz, comments that "we believe the Rancho San Carlos Partnership has fallen far short in proposing a development plan that accomplishes true habitat preservation."

And according to the California Native Plant Society, the proposed "wildlife preserve is honeycombed with building sites, miles of paved roads, utility lines, fences ... inimical to wildlife and inconsistent with the Supervisors Resolution #93-115, requiring that 'development shall be in one or more clusters located in the least environmentally sensitive portions of the property.'"

Ironically enough, the Ranch plans to rely on a county code to oblige homeowners to "comply with fuel modification requirements ... reducing the density of flammable vegetation... To produce a residential development ..." fostering the creation of a suburban environment, in effect, at the expense of the professed "Santa Lucia Preserve."

The Department of Fish and Game suggests that abandoning the proposed lodge and golf course would "significantly reduce impacts to riparian and wetland habitats." And the Governor's Office of Planning and Research states that water withdrawals in the upper San Jose Creek watershed will "affect stream flow, vegetation, and aquatic life."

While the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District is concerned that if both senior and caretaker units are constructed, water usage could be excessive.

Enter the supervisors

Few would disagree, however, that this project, long in planning and self-promotion, has merits. Yet, our board of supervisors has a history of too quickly jumping to support large-scale projects whose alleged water supply proves to be mythological.

And, only very recently, the supervisors evinced disregard for the gridlock-type traffic problems at the mouth of Carmel Valley by endorsing significant traffic producing development on Carmel Rancho Boulevard.

Rancho San Carlos will add thousands of trips per day to an already untenable traffic situation. It will draw water away from the Carmel River aquifer and otherwise lean on the infrastructure outside its gates. It could be a better neighbor and a better host to its wildlife by using a different layout, using less water than proposed, generating less traffic and executing actual road improvements in the corridors upon which it will rely.

According to county public works, the Rancho San Carlos Road and Carmel Valley Road intersection will need either a traffic light or a grade-separated interchange, like the Robinson Canyon-Carmel Valley Road junction, to handle projected traffic.

Insistence, by the supervisors, on conformity with fact and commensurate guarantees before final approval of the project, could pave the way for goodwill and harmony between Rancho San Carlos, Carmel Valley and other Monterey Peninsula communities.

Jason Wachs is a resident of Carmel Valley; William Gluck is a resident of Carmel.

Aye on Measure A

Dear Editor:

At the March 1995 special election, an overwhelming majority of Pacific Grove and Pebble Beach voters said "yes" to Measure A to improve local education. That measure did not pass.

The required super-majority approval failed by a handful of votes.

Voters will again have the chance to approve Measure A this November. The Pacific Grove Unified School District will again ask voters to approve a $35 per year per parcel tax measure (just 10 cents a day) for three specific educational programs:

- Class size: Maintain and reduce.
- Libraries: Expand and enhance services, books, computers, instructional and electronic media.
- Music: Maintain and expand programs.

In response to concerns previously raised by those not ready to support it in March, Measure A has been improved. Measure A now includes the following improvements:

■ PGUSD is now required to assist every person over 65 who does not want to pay this tax. As before, persons over 65 need not pay a penny.

■ Senior citizens are now allowed multiple year exemptions, up to five years.

■ Property not otherwise subject to tax is now exempt.

■ Special accounts for Measure A funds are now required.

■ The district can spend Measure A proceeds only for: libraries, music and class size. Any other use is illegal.

■ Measure A revenues are restricted, cannot be commingled with other revenues, and cannot be spent for general fund expenses.

■ The district must report annually how all Measure A funds were spent.

The Pacific Grove City Council has voted its unanimous endorsement of Measure A.

Please join the clear majority and in November, vote "yes" on Measure A.

Outdoor Art & Wine Festival revisits Carmel's artistic past

By BETH PENNEY

"THE FOUNDING of this city was based on the support of artists and writers, and I don't want to see that lost."

Such are the sentiments of Pat Kelleher-Dawes, one of the organizers of the sixth annual Outdoor Art and Wine Festival, scheduled for this Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Sunset Cultural Center, located on San Carlos between Eighth and Ninth.

Held in the center's main parking lot, the festival, presented by the city's Community and Cultural Commission, features wine tasting, food, and artwork for show and sale by local artists.

The wine tasting event, which runs from noon to 5 p.m. both days, is new this year, according to Kelleher-Dawes. There is no charge for the wine tasting, which will feature tastes from several Monterey County wineries, including Markham Vineyards, J. Lohr, and Petrocelli Wineries. The Friends of Sunset Center will sell souvenir wine glasses, with the proceeds going to support the center.

In addition, the Friends will serve a fundraising barbecue that will include hot dogs, hamburgers and chicken. "Plus, we have cheesecake and champagne this year," Kelleher-Dawes said.

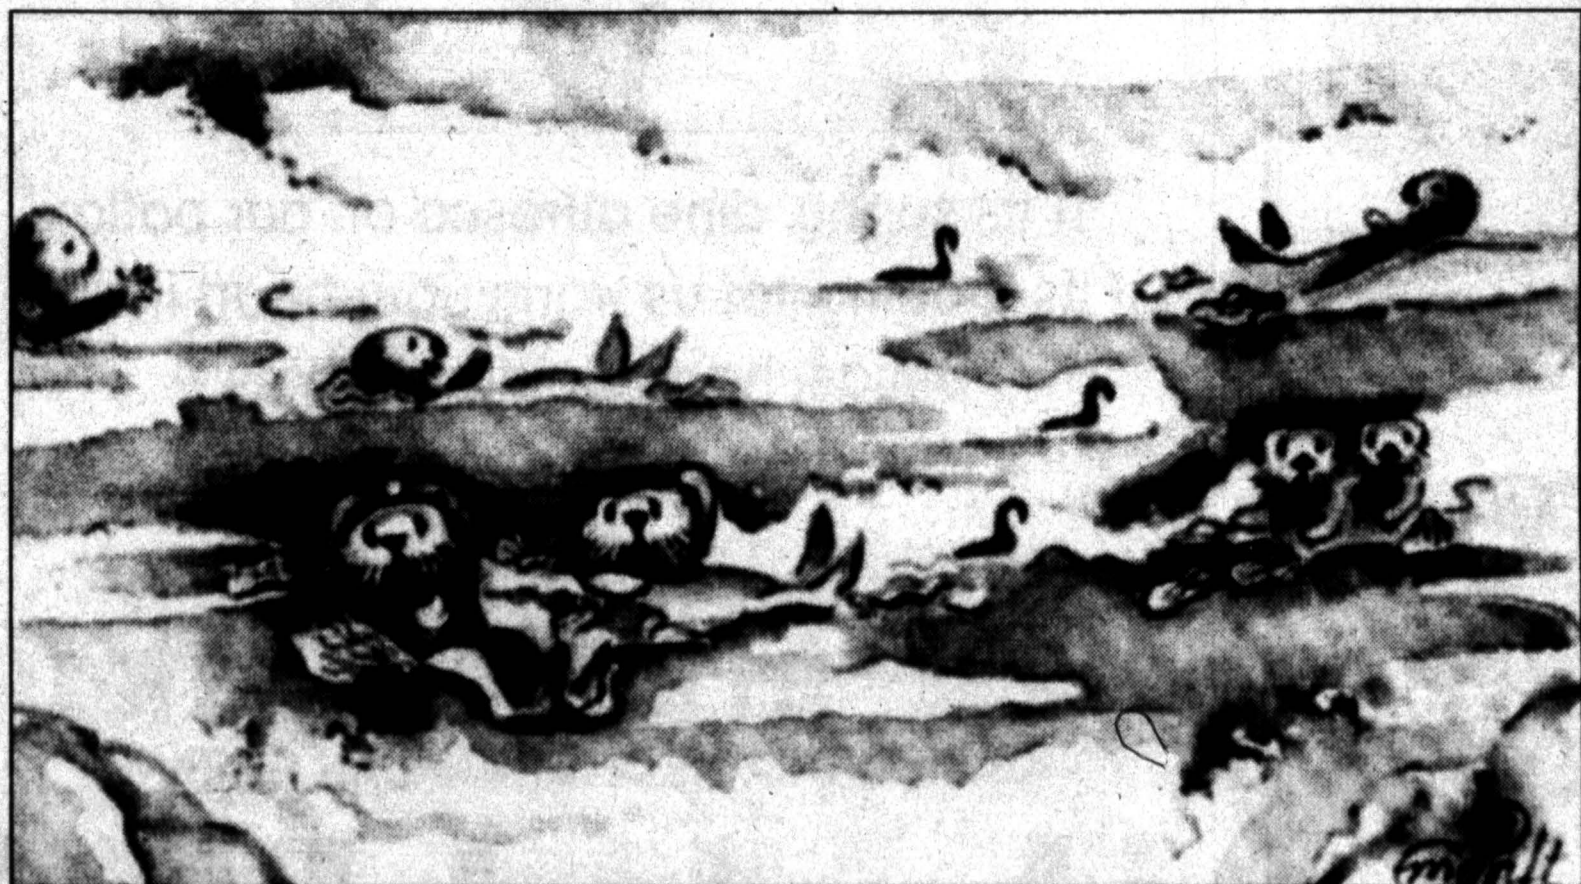

Music is provided by a band called "Music from the Andes," which plays Peruvian, Ecuadorian and Bolivian music.

The main draw

The main focus of the festival, of course, is the art. Kelleher-Dawes said that the festival has been moved this year from the spring to Labor Day. "We have better weather, and we want to encourage more traffic," she said. Attendees come from all over Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties.

In keeping with the idea that the festival celebrates Carmel's roots, Kelleher-Dawes said that the work of most of the artists represented at the festival cannot be purchased in the city's galleries.

THEATER REVIEW

Shakespeare fest off to promising start with 'Shrew'

By ROGER HENWEDGE
and JOAN DRUMMOND MILLER

IF YOU would rather meet with an IRS agent or keep a dentist appointment than attend a Shakespearean play, Pacific Repertory Theatre's Sixth Annual Carmel Shakespeare Festival production of The Taming of the Shrew may do something drastic to you: change your mind.

The production, staging at the Outdoor Forest Theater through Oct. 8, is entertaining, understandable, hilarious, and full of electric sexual tension.

It takes nerve in this era of political correctness and thin-skinned gender wars to produce an honest-to-goodness, straight version of this play, for it promotes a belief in male authority and domination within marriage. Kate, the "shrew," will possibly speak her mind to Petruchio, but she will never disobey him.

You know the story — it's an old one — you've seen hundreds of variations of it in Rosalind Russell movies where she's a hard-driving, smart-talking reporter who is indomitable until she meets Cary Grant, an even harder-driving, smarter-talking reporter. Tempers flare, sparks fly, but in the last frame she melts like butter in his arms.

You might think this story wouldn't play well today, but just think about the popularity of romance novels. Same character-types, same plot, same point

Another giant (alto sax) due for 38th Monterey Jazz Fest, courtesy of Columbia label

IT GETS better and better. September's 38th annual Monterey Jazz Festival at our fairgrounds will feature such heavyweights as Bobby McFerrin, Gene Harris, Toots Thielemans and John Scofield — along with a commissioned suite by the brilliant Maria Schneider (who'll conduct her own orchestra).

Now comes word that the celebration (9/15-16-17) will spotlight yet another jazz legend. His name had not emerged publicly until MJF honcho Tim Jackson spoke with this column a few days ago.

The superb alto saxist Lou Donaldson will be on hand as part of that Columbia Records Jazz Jam scheduled on the Saturday night in the out-of-arena Night Club. Start time — 8.

The record label informed Tim that singer-pianist Valerie Capers and trumpeter Mark Isham also will make the date. (Yes — Isham the mellow instrumentalist who has written so many significant film scores in recent years.)

Donaldson dates back to the Blue Note label's most creative New York years. His tone and lyric intensity put him in the same class as Jeep Hodge

The versatile eggplant

CALL IT a garden egg, a guinea squash, an egg fruit, an aubergine or just plain call it as we know it — an eggplant.

The size of an ostrich egg, the color of an emperor's robe, eggplant is an ancient vegetable. Believed to have originated in northern India, there were numerous names for eggplant in Sanskrit and the Hindustani languages. Early European botanists referred to it as the "mad apple," warning that ingesting it could bring on insanity.

Contrary to that notion, in 16th century Spain eggplant was sought after as "the love apple." Here in America the historic vegetable gained acceptance after 1860.

Eggplant belongs to the nightshade, solanacea family and is a cousin to the potato and tomato. There are a great many varieties of the eggplant in an assortment of hues and shapes. It grows on a two- to six-foot tall bush and is classified as a tender perennial.

Eggplant, with its firm, peppery-flavored flesh, is enjoyed worldwide. Italy reveres it, serving it up as Eggplant Parmigiana and Ratatouille, the Greeks immortalize it in Moussaka while in the Middle East it is revered as Baba Ganoush. For sure, eggplant by any name is here to stay.

I enjoy writing these cooking columns as it gives me the opportunity to go to the library and do some research and learn something. Alma Holmgren agrees with me.

Deborah Smith's 'Apron Strings' column runs bi-weekly in The Pine Cone.

Alma, who will be celebrating her 80th birthday in October, had a column similar to mine in the West County Times for six years up in San Pablo, Calif. She married long time Carmel resident Rod Holmgren just five years ago, her first marriage. Previous to that she chaired the journalism department at Contra Costa College. That lady can write, and is an extra special cook and hostess.

Above all she has a way with eggplant dishes, and recently we were treated to her

MOUSSAKA

- 3 medium-sized eggplants, peeled
- 3 large onions, finely chopped
- 2 pounds ground turkey
- 3 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1/2 cup red wine
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 1 quart milk
- 4 beaten eggs
- 2 cups ricotta cheese
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 1 cup Parmesan cheese
- Salt, pepper and nutmeg to taste

Cut eggplant into one and one-half inch slices and brown it in butter. Set aside. Sauté onions and turkey in butter until cooked. Add tomato paste, wine, parsley, cinnamon, salt and pepper. Stirring occasionally, simmer over low flame until all the liquid is gone. Set aside.

Make a white sauce with eight tablespoons of the butter by blending in flour and adding the milk slowly. Cool slightly, then add eggs, nutmeg and ricotta cheese. Grease large pan and fill with alternating layers of eggplant and meat sauce, dusting each layer with bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Pour ricotta cheese sauce over the top and bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour. Cool 20 minutes before serving. Serves eight to 10 guests.

The other eggplant recipe that I think deserves a round of applause is one I learned over a New Year's house party outside Utica, New York. Jed Brown called it

CAPONATA

- 1 eggplant, peeled
- 1 onion, diced
- 2-3 cloves of garlic, minced
- 3 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1/4 cup balsamic vinegar
- 1 cup small, pitted green olives
- 1 jar marinated artichokes, cut up
- Olive oil
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cut eggplant into one-inch cubes. Sauté eggplant, onion and garlic in oil. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Serve on a bed of lettuce as a first course or as an appetizer with pita bread.

Setting the record straight...

THE AUG. 17 edition of 'Apron Strings' contained a recipe for Orange Dijon Salad Dressing. As some readers may have noticed, that recipe was missing one essential ingredient — the Dijon mustard! Here's the recipe in its entirety:

ORANGE DIJON SALAD DRESSING

- 1 cup olive oil
- 1 cup canola oil
- 1 cup freshly squeezed orange juice
- 2 tablespoons orange zest
- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons chopped mint
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Ground pepper to taste

Place all ingredients (except oils) in a blender. Stream oils in slowly once blender is on. Leftover dressing can be refrigerated for up to 10 days.

FRIAR TUCK'S

'Hometown coffee shop tradition'

IF THE San Francisco columnist Herb Caen still chases his decades-old dream — "the perfect hamburger" — it's because he has never occupied a counter stool or roomy booth at Friar Tuck's in downtown Carmel.

The well-appointed eatery tops the various lists every time media types put together "10 Best" ballots and seek public input on this classic American fare.

Friar Tuck's opened its doors in 1978 with owner Greg Cellitti ordering high-quality ingredients and manning the grill.

At the helm

Greg retains the position, joking with regulars, welcoming visitors and turning the burgers — from Old-Fashioned ("plain and simple") to 15 creative models. Teriyaki, Mexican, Roka, on and on.

The Gourmet Carmel Burger — also known as Friar's Specialty — provides the regional standard. One-third pound of the freshest ground beef. "Big, juicy, three-pankin variety," Greg says. And though he probably could charge more — for all menu entries — prices match the "hometown coffee shop tradition we have maintained at Friar Tuck's since Day One."

Additionally, Cellitti features tasty soups and salads, cold and hot sandwiches, salads (unusually good dressings), wine and beer, the Mimosa (champagne and orange juice), family recipe chili, fresh fruit (in season) — and superb desserts (Dreyer's ice cream used at all times).

Breakfast club

A good-natured punster ("Friar Tuck's can be habit forming"), Cellitti plays a decent round. So the informal breakfast club includes golfers as well as neighborhood leaders, retirees, local writers, married couples and downtown workers as well as tourists.

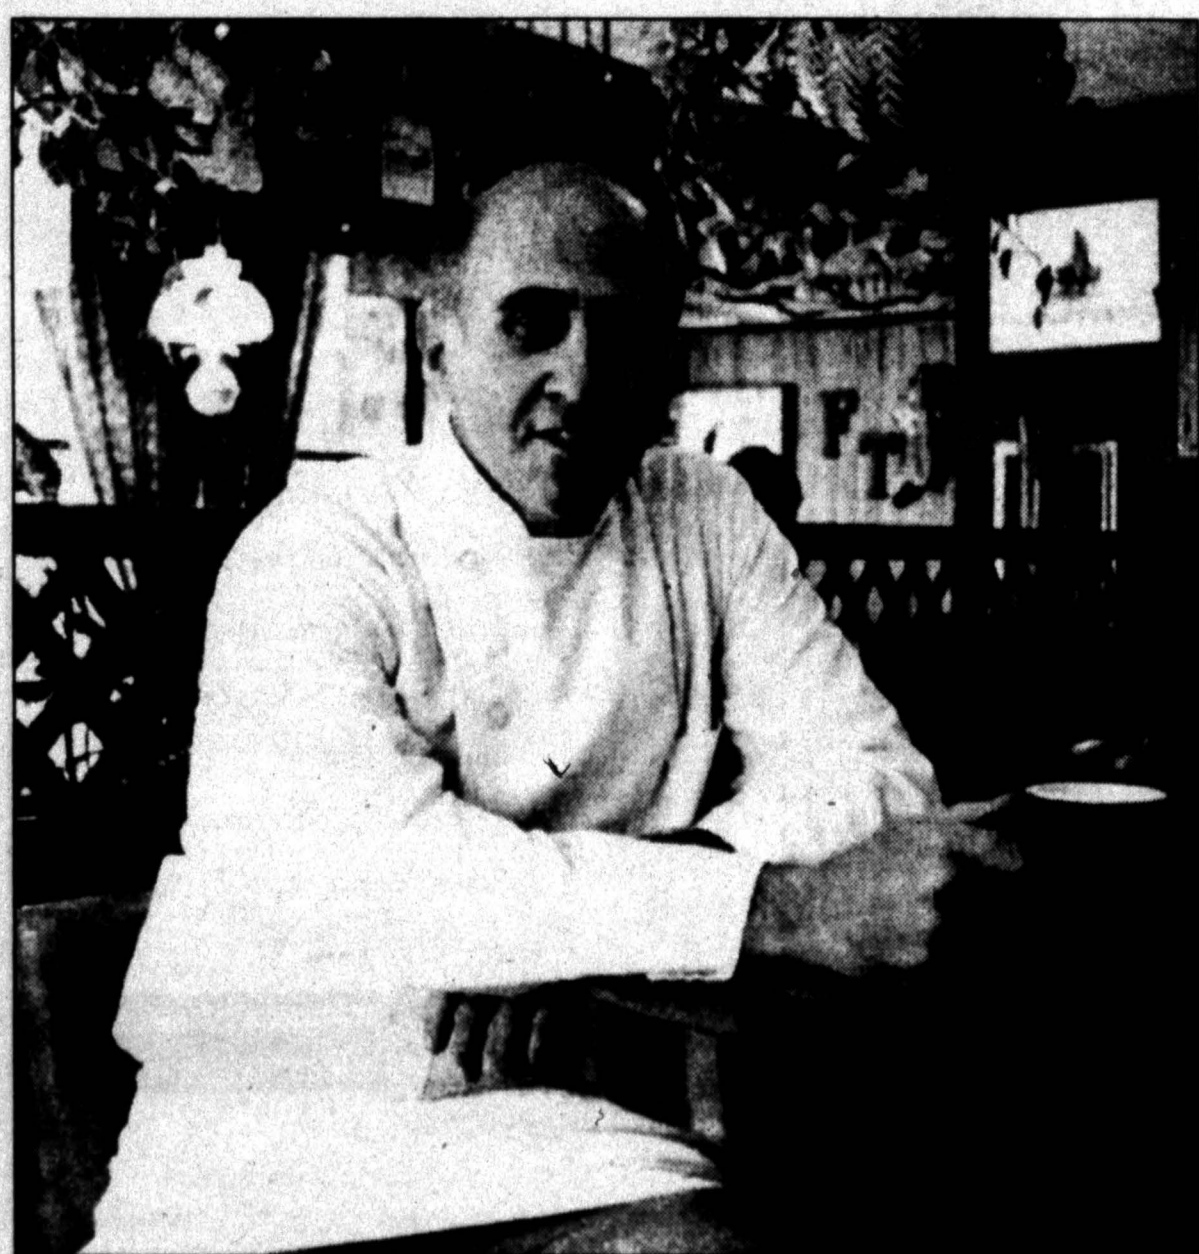

The latter get cordial treatment — Greg likes children and always breaks out family-type jokes at which all can chuckle.

Country breakfasts, five daily specials, fine omelettes (build your own or choose from 17 others), "heavenly benedicts," pancakes, American waffles, thicker Belgian waffles, old-fashioned French toast, oatmeal, granola, vegetarian choices — portions and reasonable costs guarantee that visiting families can eat well without bursting the budget.

Soggy potatoes can ruin the best-intentioned breakfast. Friar Tuck's always offers a carefully prepared blend of potatoes with onions and spices.

Close attention to details, economical dining, happy surroundings (including murals of the village by artist Shag O'Rourke), family focus, good food. Friar Tuck's will win favor with you and yours.

Friar Tuck's is located at the corner of Dolores and Fifth (next to the Carmel Post Office) in downtown Carmel. The restaurant is open from 6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. More details: 624-4274.

For Labor Day weekend, myriad of outdoor events set

TAKE ADVANTAGE of the last three-day weekend of the summer season by attending an outdoor event. Here are a few of the offerings:

⇨ Saturday-Monday: Ninth Annual Greek Festival

THE SAINT John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church of Monterey County holds its Ninth Annual Greek Festival from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday at the Custom House Plaza in downtown Monterey. Admission is free.

Greek dancing, Greek food and live music are highlights of the popular annual festival. All proceeds from the event benefit the church, located at 326 Park St. in Salinas.

More information: 443-1525.

⇨ Monday: 'Labor Day Concert on the Lawn' with Monterey Bay Symphony

THE MONTEREY Bay Symphony will present a free "Labor Day Concert on the Lawn" Monday beginning at 2 p.m. at the Naval Postgraduate School

Carmel artist Susan Kingsley nabs prestigious award

■ She's one of only 30 artists in the nation (and the only Carmelite) to garner the 1995 Western States Arts Federation fellowship.

By BETH PENNEY

ARTIST SUSAN Kingsley's studio looks like it might be a machine shop rather than an artist's work space.

Housed in a remodeled garage outside her Carmel home, the light, airy room abounds with fascinating pieces of equipment, drawers full of tools, work spaces covered with pieces of metal in various formations, and — the seemingly incongruous element that gives Kingsley's work its focus — an impressive array of dried flowers, seed pods, leaves, and other evidence of nature's handiwork.

Susan Kingsley

From this studio, Kingsley creates metal sculpture — jewelry, wall displays, occasional pieces — that she says is intended to "appear as if it were not manufactured or designed." Her sculptures are at once as familiar as nature yet not so unusual that they demand closer inspection.

Kingsley has been working in metal for 20 years. "It takes a long time to control it enough to use it as a medium of expression," she said of the complicated mechanical process her art requires. "But I enjoy the challenge of it. The fascination with the materials and the process gives it a dimension that I like."

WESTAF fellowship

Kingsley's work has been nationally recognized. She has shown and competed in galleries, museums and at shows in 20 states and Canada. Local galleries in which Kingsley has shown her work include the Winfield Gallery in Carmel and the Vandon Collection in Pacific Grove.

Most recently, she received a Western States Arts Federation (WESTAF) Regional Fellowship in Visual Arts. One of only 30 artists to receive this award in 1995, and the only one from Carmel, she was selected for her work in metalsmithing as an expression of contemporary ideas.

These ideas in her art have to do with feminism, and her impressive collection of dried plants and flowers speaks to this theme — her favorites are carnivorous plants. "Historically, flowers have been decorative and passive, but these are seductive and aggressive," Kingsley said.

On the patio outside her studio, she has recreated an environment for a number of carnivorous plants, including a Venus Flytrap and a number of other less familiar varieties. The plants sit in their clay pots in a pebbled pool. "They're bog plants," Kingsley explained. "They die back in the winter, and that's when I collect them."

Materials from nature

The artwork she creates from the pods, leaves and blooms of the carnivorous plants, first by doing a wax mold and then casting the mold in copper, is presented as jewelry — outsized, challenging the traditional idea of jewelry as a complementary ornament. Displayed on the wall, the bracelets and brooches are intended to raise questions.

"They're meant to call attention to themselves when worn as jewelry, and to confront comfortable ideas about jewelry when they are being exhibited as objects."

Kingsley does not stop at carnivorous plants, however. She also has a series of chandeliers and candelabras that she calls "Enlightened Embranglements" for which she utilized vines, leaves and flowers. Each object is unique, and they lend a fascinating atmosphere to the rooms in which they hang. "But it's a whole different idea when the candles are lit," she explained.

Hidden within the traditionally bronzed colors of the metal vines are of view.

Good performances join with intriguing story in 'Shrew'

What's a little puzzling is that the play's author, whoever he was (PRT

Daraj Maxfield and Rebecca Roy have mastered the main roles of Petruchio and Kate in 'The Taming of the Shrew.'

believes William Shakespeare was a pseudonym used by Edward De Vere, hence the hyphenated "Shake-speare" in the festival name) proved over and over again he was not ignorant of women, nor of the power they could wield. He went beyond Elizabethan cultural stereotypes in his creation of Lady Macbeth, Portia, and Cordelia. Therefore, Kate's final speech in this play makes one wonder what his true feelings on this issue were.

Contemporary directors have often chosen to have Kate deliver this speech satirically, tongue-in-check, winking at the audience as she dissembles obedience. Shakespeare gave no such stage direction, and Jeff Hudelson, the director, has Kate deliver it straight.

Hudelson keeps the action moving, the pace swift. It's a tribute to him and the ensemble that through excellent timing, they amuse and entertain without sacrificing either meaning or content.

Wicked yet lovable

The trick of successfully playing Kate is to display a wicked temper with everyone, including her own family, and yet be lovable to the audience. Rebecca Roy has mastered this task. Her multi-layered performance includes her ability to portray a strong attraction to Petruchio while she shouts, stamps her foot, attacks with her fists, and does everything to deny it.

Daraj Maxfield as Petruchio is dashing, likeable and comedic — all at the same time. His method of taming Kate is to enact a temperament more choleric than hers, and these attempts are superbly believable.

An outstanding job is performed by Kevin Caston, who portrays a clever and cunning servant, Tranio, and also, in disguise, his master, Lucentio. Caston's an amazing clown with magnificent faces and rubbery body language that allow him to create two completely different characters, both highly credible.

Christina Traister is a convincing Bianca portraying the hypocrisy just beneath the surface of the sweet, obedient daughter.

Jack Christ in a rather small role as Bianca's suitor, Cremio, creates an amazingly comic portrait through his clever improvisational skills.

As we've come to expect, PRT's sets, lighting and costumes are ingenious and authentic, never calling undue attention to themselves. Rhonda Griffith, Steve Judge and Ray Carrett get well-deserved credit for their professionalism in these areas.

So whether you're a newcomer, a returnee, or an aficionado of Shakespeare, you can't do better than an evening with "The Shrew." I have fun being a spellbound voyeur awaiting the culmination of this mighty sparring match!

The play continues this Saturday and Sunday night at 8 p.m. Further performance dates or reservations may be obtained by calling 622-0100.

Kingsley sees award as opportunity

flowers in surprising pastels, an effect Kingsley has achieved by using automobile paint, because of its qualities when used on metal. "These colors are usually unassociated with metal. It took a while to get the technique down."

As well as an artist, Kingsley is a writer and teacher, writing about and teaching her metalsmithing techniques. She is in demand as a lecturer and workshop leader across the country (she'll be in Madison, Wisc. and in Chicago in October) and she has found time for the past four years to teach an evening class in jewelry and metal arts at Monterey Peninsula College.

She is also the author of a book, Hydraulic Die Forming for Jewelers and Metalsmiths, which she self-published in 1993. The demand for the book, advertised only in metalsmithing magazines, for which she also writes, has surprised her. It is now used as a college textbook at several learning institutions, and she continues to receive orders for it from around the world.

Kingsley feels her selection as the recipient of a WESTAF award this year is "quite an honor" and an opportunity to further her artistic career.

"There are other aspects besides the [$5,000] cash reward. You can take an artist's residency somewhere, or you can have the Foundation support an exhibition or catalog, or you can lecture or teach.

WESTAF will also publish a color catalog of the winners' work.

Law college hosts works by Wiese, Cunningham

OIL PAINTINGS by Carmel artist Ann Cunningham and complementary bronze works by sculptor Kenneth Wiese go on view Friday through Oct. 31 at the Monterey College of Law Gallery, located at 404 Franklin Street in Monterey.

Impressionistic painter Cunningham has studied under Nita Engle, Joyce Pike, Roberta Clark, Jack Hines, Harold Holly, and Zoltan Szabo.

Wiese holds bachelor's and master's degrees in art, and has also studied under the late Carmel Valley artist Alexander Weygers.

More information: 659-5310.

'Endangered Species' show opens at Cypress Gallery

CYPRESS GALLERY of Carmel will present "Endangered Species," a one-man show of wildlife acrylic on canvas paintings by Robert Nichols, opening with a reception from 4 to 7 p.m. Saturday at the gallery, located on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth across from the Carmel Art Association.

Nichols, who lives in San Diego, has seen several of his illustrations in publications across the United States, and has also conceived, developed and illustrated two educational computer games on the environment, "Eco-Adventures of the Oceans" and "Eco-Adventures of the Rainforest."

Nichols' career in art began as an art major in college; he later was graduated from the Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles. Soon after graduation he became the art director for Palm Springs Life magazine.

A portion of each sale of Nichols' paintings will benefit the Friends of

Carl Cherry Center for the Arts sets exhibition of nocturnal photography

"NIGHT VISION," an exhibit of nocturnal photography by nine Monterey Peninsula photographers, opens in conjunction with sculptures by Betty Rees Heredia with a public reception from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the Carl Cherry Center for the Arts, located at Fourth and Guadalupe in Carmel.

For the past three years, nine local female photographers have used their cameras to explore aspects of Monterey County after dark. Focusing on everyday scenes made dramatic by nightfall, the women have created a rich tableaux of image and texture that lends a pervasive psychological bearing to their work.

The photographers are Anne Canright, Gerry Corn, Maureen Curtis, Mary Frost, Pat Handler, Susan Hovermale, Jody Mazzi, Maria Prince and Bonnie Sunwood.

Using glass, steel, cloth and brass sheeting, Betty Rees Heredia's figurative sculptures investigate spiritual themes by combining and contrasting disparate forms and textures. A former student of Richard Deibenkorn and Alexander Nepote, Heredia has seen exhibitions of her work at the San Francisco Museum of Art, Stanford Art Museum and the Rell Cercle Artistic (Barcelona, Spain).

The exhibit remains on view through Sept. 30. More information: 624-7491.

Gallery 21 serves as hometown headquarters for works by Eyvind Earle

Eyvind Earle, vital and active at 79, maintains a painting studio in Carmel and a serigraphic studio at Ryan Ranch. His works are represented at more than 150 galleries world-wide. Unique among these enterprises is Carmel's Gallery 21, which shows his works exclusively.

"We have a standing stock of paintings, original prints and sculpture by Eyvind. We're his hometown headquarters," say Mike McCurdy, Executive director.

Earle still paints daily. In an art history sense, his work has been classified as "mystical realism." He developed a technique that employs an under painting of acrylic, next a layer of oil paint, then an oil glaze and finally a picture varnish finish. Thus he creates his characteristic luminosity.

The artist is noted for his dramatic use of light and shadow, and his stylized visions of the California coastline. Earle has painted all his life. In the 1950s he worked for the Disney studios, lending his imprint to several classic animated films of the era.

"Sleeping Beauty" is ranked as his signature film.

Eyvind Earle, ever creative, is among the few famous artists who still creates the color separations for each of his serigraphs. Museum shows that will commemorate his 80th birthday in 1996 are now in the planning stages.

Gallery 21 maintains an extensive collection of artwork by Eyvind Earle. The gallery is on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh in downtown Carmel, and is open daily. Call 626-2700.

Actor Billy Dee Williams to host jazz stamp unveiling

and Sonny Criss — and he sounds strong as a bull on his latest release.

What a coup. And what a paradox that season ticket holders will have to split the main stage area for a while to hear this significant artist. Grounds admission ducats may end up seeming more valuable than gold—

Billy Dee Williams, too

At 8:30 on the Saturday night, Tim said, actor Billy Dee Williams will host a 15-minute main stage ceremony around the brand new jazz stamps that will go on sale during this festival (9/16).

Postal officials will be on hand, of course, along with living players — Donaldson, Maceo Parker, Scofield, Chick Corea — and honorees' kin.

The 32-cent stamps portray Pops Armstrong,

John Coltrane, Charles Mingus, Thelonious Monk, Bird Parker, Errol Garner, James P. Johnson, Jelly Roll Morton, Eubie Blake and Coleman Hawkins.

Finally, the third grounds venue — brand new this year — has been named Dizzy's Den. For the late John Birks Gillespie.

Jazz Store co-owners Alan Schultz and Gil Wisdom just keep on booking good things.

Above is Bill Minor's drawing of himself on drums, Gennady Loktionov on piano, and another Russian musician on keyboard bass. Loktionov will perform Sunday at Bay Books; Minor signs copies of his book 'Unzipped Souls' between Loktionov's sets.

On Saturday night, that intimate venue — next to KRML Radio in The Crossroads — will present a quartet fronted by trumpet man Tom Perron and drummer Bud Spangler. Kicks off at 7:30; call 624-6431 right away.

Perron at first may remind you of Chet Baker. He also can swing hard in the brass-bright manner of Kenny Dorham. Spangler does what's right for the specific tune — and has served as a session producer for pianist Jessica Williams.

On bass that evening — creative John Wiitala. At the piano will be Joe Gilmore, called an "absolute killer soloist" by Jessica (herself among the strongest on the scene today).

Russian jazz pianist Gennady Loktionov appears in Unzipped Souls — Bill Minor's book about a 9,000-kilometer "jazz journey" through the former Soviet Union. The kindred spirits will get together again at 2 p.m. Saturday at Bay Books of downtown Monterey.

As you probably know, Bill's wise and refreshing volume now can be found at area shops. Temple University Press prices the 256-page illustrated package at $27.95 — and it's worth every cent.

Gennady will play a free program. Between sets, much-published jazz writer Bill — also a valuable poet — will talk about his trip and sign copies.

Minor's interviews with such as pianists Igor Bril and Sergei Kurokhin would justify the project all by themselves. And yet we get so much more — human beauty and bravery as witnessed by a wordman of large talent, wit, curiosity, open-heartedness.

Jazz pianist Ed Mendenhall has completed his studies at Boston's Berklee School of Music. (You know Ed — he began playing professionally while still at RLS and was a Monterey Jazz Fest High School All-Star.)

Well, Ed will marry Mitsuru Saito (whom he met back there). The invitational ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 9, at Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel.

Word was they will live and work in Japan. Much joy to the young couple—

Tim Jackson also oversees Kuumbwa Jazz Center. He says Kuumbwa's 20th Birthday Party will happen from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday — a free concert at San Lorenzo Park in Santa Cruz.

Performers include knockout vocalist Claudia Villela and the joyous Santa Cruz Steel aggregation "in a revised format." Also the Hy-Tones Reunion with Paul Contos, Paul Nagel, Stan Poplin and Jimmy Baum. Special guests Dawan Muhammad and Randy Masters, too.

That latter unit was one of the first to play Kuumbwa. On Sept. 9, pleasing flutist Kenny Stahl will be the leader there.

Bravo, the film and arts cable network, starts a fine series on Friday night. It's the eight-part Masters of American Music look at jazz. Each one-hour episode will get a Sunday repeat (check local listings for times).

The "American TV premiere" subjects (in the order announced): Overview from early New Orleans players to Wynton Marsalis, Louis Armstrong, Count Basie, Bird Parker, John Coltrane, Thelonious Monk, Sarah Vaughan, The Blues from Mississippi Delta to Chicago (with Son House, Bessie Smith, Jimmy Rushing, Big Bill Broonzy on rare film).

Sam swings in

Jazz broadcaster Sam Salerno will be MC for this year's Santa Rosalia Festival on Sept. 9-10 at Custom House Plaza in Monterey. And next year, he'll be a committeeman.

Sam's show may be heard from 7 to 10 on Sunday nights over KRML (1410AM). Good straight-ahead stuff.

Vocalist Mary Anne Randl informs that she will work with the Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra on Monday night, Sept. 4, at The Club House on Cannery Row.

Same venue on Saturday night, Sept. 9 — Mary Anne presenting "an evening of parlor jazz." With Martan Mann (keyboards), Stan Poplin (bass), Bob Blankenship (drums). Door: $5.

Wally's Swing World will play tonight at Ferrante's atop the Monterey Marriott. Dancing from 8 to 11. Cover of $5.

Red Beans & Rice (tough local blues guys) will be at The Catalyst in Santa Cruz tonight. First set starts at 9.

Saxist Steve Coleman on the misunderstood M-Base Movement of which he's a part: "It's a commitment to eclecticism and the histories of the cultures that make the music. It's not a musical style — which a lot of writers don't get."

LIGHTS OUT JAZZ ON THE BAY

August is heating up every Wednesday evening on Cannery Row. A Taste of Monterey (Monterey's new premier wine tasting room) is kicking off its Lights Out Jazz on the Bay series August 2 with Santa Cruz's very own Warmth.

Warmth had been in existence as a Latin Jazz group since 1972 when they were positioned to play permanently in front of the Cooper House in downtown Santa Cruz. The band entertained thousands, seven days a week for eighteen years. After the destruction of the band's home by the 1989 earthquake, the band moved to Capitola Wharf to continue its performances on the weekends. Members of the group include: Don McCaslin-Leader, vibes, piano (Responsible for the group's creation), John O. Thomson-Congas & percussion, Charmagne Scott-Vocalist, James Zitro-Drums, James Brudnick-Bass, Dave O'Connor-Guitar. Guest soloist Donny McCaslin on the sax, Don Senior's son, will be playing with Warmth as a warmup for his international tour with his permanent group Steps Ahead. A Taste of Monterey has invited Warmth to play every Wednesday evening from 6-9pm for the entire month of August. Other classical and jazz performers will follow in the months to come. All of the concerts will be free of charge. With an unbeatable panoramic view of the Monterey Bay and premium Monterey County Wine available by-the-glass, A Taste of Monterey provides the perfect backdrop for people to enjoy Lights Out Jazz on the Bay. Non-alcoholic beverages and light appetizers will also be served. Ample parking is available at the Cannery Row Parking Garage, located at the corner of Foam and Prescott streets. For more information about Lights Out Jazz on the Bay, contact Ken Rauh at 408-646-5446 or John Thomson at 408-656-0351.

MARCH HARE: AN AVEDA CONCEPT SALON

Festival offers affordable art

"New artists should be encouraged to come out and show. This is the same support of the local artists' community that the city was built on," Dawes said, referring to Carmel's start as a haven for working writers and artists.

Developer Frank Devendorf encouraged people to move to his newly built houses by promising them low purchase costs for their homes if they would come and live, and practice their trade, in Carmel. His plan was a success, and this approach to real estate resulted in Carmel's reputation in the early part of this century as a bohemian artists' colony.

The festival's theme is "Fine Arts at Affordable Prices," and 50 artists will show their works, with prices below those in most galleries. Work includes watercolors, oils, acrylics, collages, sculpture, photography, etchings, lithographs and serigraphs.

Admission is free. More information may be obtained by calling Kelleher-Dawes at 626-3515.

Old World charm and modern construction meet at the beautiful adobe home in Carmel Highlands. Its classic lines are complemented by dramatic ocean views.

Live out your own fairy tale in this castle dream home

FOR ALL of its uniqueness and beauty, this castle-like adobe in stunning Carmel Highlands is built to last and last.

Along with the slate roof and tile floors, you get 16-inch steel-reinforced walls.

The exterior obviously charms in that priceless, Old World way. The interior's arched doors and circular stairways carry the classic look throughout.

Other major features: three bedrooms, three baths, three-car garage — and, as if all that weren't enough, a separate guest house.

Give a call. Come visit what could be your private castle by the sea.

Old, monolithic realtor network begins to show wear

IN RECENT months, "organized real estate" seems to be an oxymoron.

The term describes a close-knit network of local, state and national realtor associations that for more than 75 years has exercised considerable clout over the housing market, over housing legislation in Sacramento and Washington, D.C., and in promoting brand name marketing of the term "realtor."

The grip is still strong, but the monolithic realtor network is showing signs of strain.

■ Industry leaders say the turmoil may lower costs for the consumer.

In California, local boards up and down the state are merging, going out of business or scrambling to stay alive.

For example, beginning later this year, a handful of the largest real estate firms in Los Angeles are starting their own multiple listing service, or MLS as it is referred to in the business. Long the province of the local boards of realtors, many may have to close their doors — or at least radically change how they do business — because of the revenue loss from the MLS.

Associations sent into frenzy

In the Bay Area, five of the major independent real estate firms also plan to start their own MLS, sending several local associations into a frenzy as they try to figure out their role without the MLS magnet.

Similar to the period after the breakup of telephone giant ATT in the early 1970s, it's as if there

California Trends

By BRADLEY INMAN

has been massive deregulation of the real estate trade association business even though the government isn't involved with these private non-profit groups.

Along with the cost and irrelevancy of some local realtor associations, new technology, which is revolutionizing the multiple listing service, explains the shake up of this sprawling real estate trade group infrastructure.

In addition, a recent change in internal realtor policy permits agents to join any board they choose, throwing many boards into a competitive scramble and breaking an unwritten code of solidarity inside the real estate network.

Consumer benefits from infighting

In the past, an agent had to join the board where the office is located.

For now, the average real estate transaction hasn't changed and the consumer who works with an agent probably hasn't noticed anything amiss, but inside the typical board of realtors, there is unprecedented infighting.

Industry leaders say the turmoil will lead to more efficient real estate-related services and may eventually lower the cost of buying and selling homes for the consumer. New and better technology and fewer costs to the industry could be passed on to buyers and sellers.

At the heart of the change is the MLS.

In the past, the MLS has been under the coveted control of the local association of realtors, bringing in substantial revenue and giving these local non-profits considerable clout over the real estate agent and the market place generally.

Though the associations have other activities such as lobbying local governments and offering education to its members, the MLS is the most important economic incentive for most agents to join the local trade group.

But cost of the MLS to real estate firms and new technology has brought this old system into question. Many of the local associations have been criticized for being slow to bring on new technology. Also, real estate firms began to examine the cost of the MLS and figured they could do it cheaper and more efficiently by themselves.

Mutiny not expected

When some realtors first began mentioning their concerns a couple of years ago, the idea of a mutiny was not remotely expected. Always a loyal group, local boards figured that the disgruntled members would remain faithful.

Now, many boards are trying to react to the defection by promising to change their ways, update technology, review costs and become more efficient and relevant.

But industry observers say it may be too late.

One leading realtor, who didn't want to be identified, said: "It's gone way too far to put this thing back in the bottle."
